Building a teen home

YMCA hopes to build spot for teens to call their own by 1999

By LIZ THOMSEN
Staff Reporter

They want to build a place of their own. A place where teens can hang out with friends, eat, play video games, and blow off some steam.

Kristi Lampel wants to help. These are all her kids, she feels. She wishes more adults would be a light in what is, for some teens, a dark and confusing period of life.

Lampel's light is the Lake Villa Teen Center she is planning.

She is business manager for the Hastings Lake YMCA, as well as youth leader for Beach Bible Church in Zion.

Lampel feels it is much harder to be a teen today than it was when she was young.

"I have a number of kids in my youth group whose lives are difficult," she said. "I wanted some place for the kids to hang out and be safe."

Lampel continues to study how to help teens become healthy adults.

She attended a recent YMCA training session on reaching teens. The YMCA is able to provide facilities and activities for adults and younger kids, but is having a hard time reaching teens as a group.

"One of the critical issues is that they need a place of their own," stated Lampel. Young people struggling with their own identities don't want to be lumped in with the little kids, she continued.

Teen volunteers Keri Malcolm, 14, and Tracy Japuntich, 15, agree.

The Antioch High freshmen and other teen volunteers have taken a seldom used building in the East Camp of Hastings Lake YMCA, and made it their own.

Malcolm is thrilled by the prospect of fixing it up and painting it.

"We are going to paint each brick on the fireplace a different color," she said.

The room is a big windowed space with exposed beams and a working stone fireplace. The lake glistens beyond dusty window panes edged with peeling paint.

Indy rookie to have 'own day'

Antioch honors business owner; Salem to host parade

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Village Board honored Elite Engines owner Steve Knapp with a proclamation during Monday's village board meeting.

Knapp, who has been in business in Antioch since 1991, has been named Indy Racing League Rookie of the Year. He finished third in the Indianapolis 500, May 24.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug presented a Village Award to Knapp.

"Me and my wife have been working very hard to meet this goal of getting to Indy," he told the June 1 village council meeting.

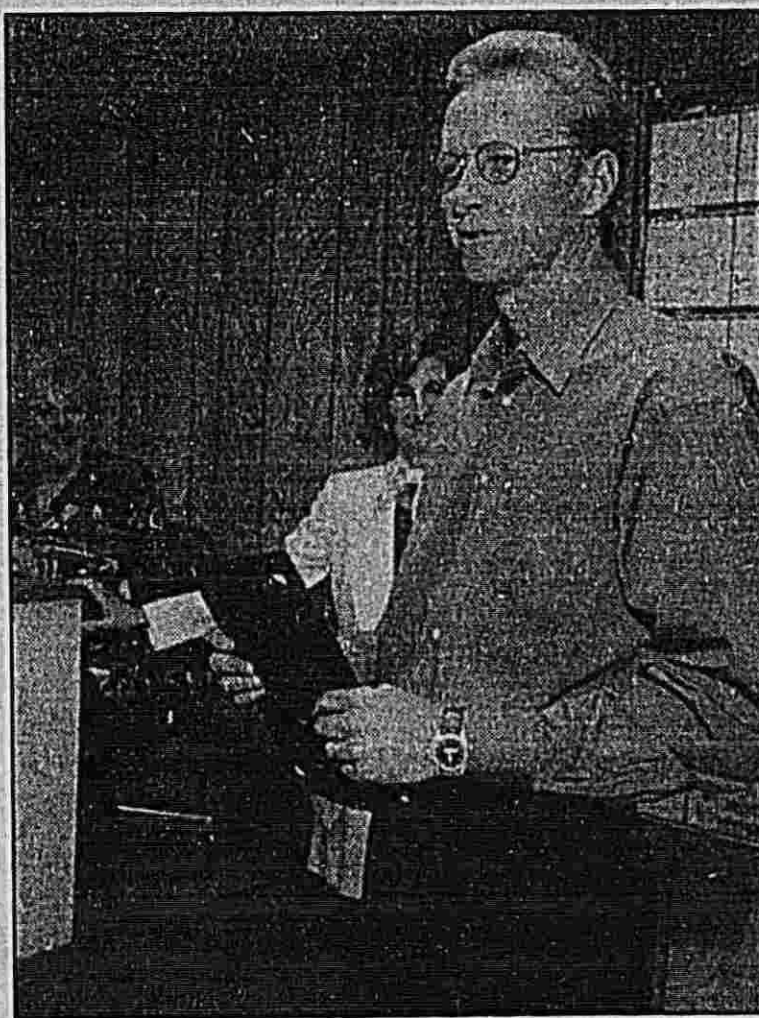

Knapp is especially pleased by how nice people have been at the speedway. He was even invited by the U.S. Navy to visit an aircraft carrier.

"We started our business here in Antioch in 1991," he said. "I like the Antioch area."

Knapp is a resident of Salem, Wisconsin. Salem Town officials and residents will host a parade for Knapp Saturday, June 13 at 10 a.m. The parade will end with a proclamation declaring it "Steve Knapp Day."

Knapp also will serve as honorary starter at Wilmot Speedway's Coca-Cola Race Night Saturday night, June 13. Knapp will be available for autographs at the end of ceremonies after the parade. He also will sign autographs at the raceway from 6 to 7 p.m. Wisconsin Governor Tommy Thompson is expected to attend the event.

People attending the parade, race events, and autograph opportunities are encouraged to bring a non-perishable food item for the Sharing Center Food Pantry.

Coyotes corral kids near school center

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Children at W. C. Petty School sometimes take a day off from outside recess because of the coyote.

It is a precaution the school takes when a coyote is seen near the school.

"The kids think it's cool," said principal Tim Mahaffy.

"Anytime they're seen..., on or off school grounds, we will keep the kids inside as a precautionary measure," he said.

"We've never seen more than one at a time," he said. As a result, it is not known how many coyotes may be in the woods near the school.

The coyotes are thought to come from the woods between the school and the Tiffany Farms housing development.

"On two different occasions, we've had a coyote on the school grounds or walk right by the school," said Mahaffy. "One time he was just jogging along."

The Antioch Police Department provided the school with recommended precautions.

There should be constant outdoor supervision of children.

It is not recommended that food be provided for coyotes.

Refuse containers should be kept tightly closed. Brush or wild grasses should be reduced, if possible.

Pets should be monitored, especially after dark. Also, if pets are commonly fed outside, their food containers should be brought in at night.

Sightings of coyotes should be reported to the Antioch Police Department so that they may record coyote prevalence.

There are Internet web sites that discuss coyote habits (keyword: coyote). George Seymour at the California Department of Fish and Game Report states that Canis latrans, coyote, adapts readily to changes in the landscape caused by humans. It is a very adaptable animal.

A member of the dog family, it is also shaped like and about the size of a shepherd dog. However, the tail is round and bushy and carried straight out below the level of its back.

The female will have a litter of three to nine pups in April and May in a den she may dig or take over from another animal such as a fox or badger. The pups, blind for three weeks, are near the den for the first ten weeks, and are then taught to hunt after that.

Coyotes were first sighted in Illinois in 1950, and, in 1995, a pair of coyotes were found in New York City.

The Ohio Division of Wildlife identifies why urban areas are acceptable to coyotes. "It's not hard to see how an adaptable animal like the coyote could utilize urban areas to its advantage."

"Ample food can be found in dumpsters or garbage cans, and squirrels, rabbits, and raccoons are all fairly common in the city. Coyotes have been found taking shelter in drain pipes; abandoned buildings can also serve as a home."

"Most major cities were established near or along major waterways; thus, a city dwelling coyote wouldn't have to go far in search of water."

"Waterways and the adjacent land also provide travel lanes or corridors."

TEEN HOME: YMCA builds

Malcolm pictures a soda shop, gaming tables and perhaps a computer corner, if they can get hardware donations.

Downstairs, the teens hope to have a dance floor. A white board graffiti wall will be available for those who want to take up the pen and express themselves. But for now, it is a dark, musty space, filled with old camp canoes.

Lampel and the teens are brainstorming on finding funds and volunteers, but despite the major work, enthusiasm can't be dampened.

The big trick is getting everything from the dreaming stage to the building stage, according to Lampel.

They hope local organizations will step forward to help with renovations.

Parents are enthused about the project as well.

"When I talked to the Sequoit Pride Parent's Council they said, 'there's 2,000 kids at Antioch high, how many can you get in the building?'" laughed Lampel.

Lampel feels strongly that teens need positive adult role models. She has dedicated herself to that end.

"I will be here (in the teen center) from 4 to 9 p.m. every day, she emphasizes.

Her drive is contagious to the small group of teens and adults helping to plan the project. They hope to have the teen center up and operational by the start of the 1999 school year. Then they will have a place of their own.

"I don't think that teens are looking for someone that's exactly like their culture," said Lampel. "They are looking for someone to accept them the way they are."

Gannon to tickle keys in community recital

Amanda Gannon will present a piano recital Friday, June 5, at 7 p.m. at Indian Hills Chapel in Ingleside. "She's been very involved in choirs and theater at Antioch Community High School. She's also been involved with the St. Peter Church Choir," said Blanca Visk, Gannon's teacher for 10 years.

This is a free 45-minute recital. "She will play Scarlatti and Mozart, and some contemporary pieces," Visk said. "She's liked everything—classical, jazz, show tunes. Anything we've done, she's done a nice job on it."

"Her sister, Sarah, will sing and play a duet on the piano."

Amanda Gannon will study music at Winona State University in Minnesota.

Indian Hill Chapel is on Fairfield Road just north of Rollins Road.

PM&L's Readers' Theater presentation on June 7 from 8 to 9 p.m. is "Captain Stormfield's Visit to Heaven" by Samuel Clemens. Matt Conkrite, of Fox Lake, is directing this tale of an eccentric old sea captain who died and went to heaven. And then came back. Actors are Kenneth Smouse and Tom Hausman, of Antioch; Sam Nieves and Barb Conkrite, of Fox Lake; Aaron Starnes, of Ingleside; and Debbie Helmke, of Trevor.

Students from St. Peter School have done well at Carmel High School. Recent graduates received special honors May 22. William Fusz was given the Carmel Leadership Award for his "outstanding leadership through his cooperation with the faculty and support of the students," according to the St. Peter Church Bulletin. He will attend the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana.

The Carmel Outstanding Senior Award is "an all-encompassing award which embodies service, spirit, and leadership. The award is given to a senior who is cooperative, responsible, loyal, and sincere in his attitude toward school and his peers." Kevin McKinney received the award this year. He will attend Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois.

The Carmel Service Award is for a student with "exemplary service to the Carmel community and who has extended this Christian service to the Carmel community and who has extended this Christian service to the parish and community." This award was given to Andrew Sheehan who formerly attended St. Peter School and now attends St. Patrick Church in Wadsworth.

Chamber of Commerce and Industry President Barbara Porch said that the village Arts and Crafts Faire is coming along very well. "We have over 90 exhibitors right now," she told Chamber members on May 21. That was then.

This is now: there are 114 exhibitors as of June 1 and Dan Sills is closing it off. Chamber member Sills is organizing the fair. He has said that no additional entries will be accepted. Sills, of Betty Sills Gallery, has said that the Arts and Crafts Faire on Toft Avenue on June 20 and 21 will be the biggest fair in recent memory.

Owner Deni Holm-Phelps has brought a new candy store to town—Deni's Candy Bouquet. "I'm open; I'm going to have my grand opening on June 20," she said. Her store is at 418 Lake Street. "I make up bouquets with all types of hard candies, domestic and imported," she said.

She recommends the bouquets for gift giving. "It doesn't wilt, never fades, and you can eat it."

Holm-Phelps also has mugs and stuffed animals. By the time of her grand opening, she expects to have boxed and bulk candy too.

"I'm trying to make this like an old-fashioned candy store."

She accepts telephone orders at 800-998-7435.

The benefit at the Antioch Moose Lodge for postal carrier Jody Pilcher's children was very successful. "It went great, absolutely fantastic," said Frank L. Schultz Jr. He worked closely with Leta Sathoff and Todd Erickson and about two dozen other people to bring together people for an auction, raffle, and good time. The coordinating committee will deposit the money with the State Bank of The Lakes.

"Donations can be sent to State Bank of The Lakes in care of the Jody Pilcher Benefit Fund," Schultz said.

The Cavalier donated by Raymond Chevrolet-Olds-Geo in Antioch and Ray Chevrolet and Geo in Fox Lake was a big success. "It far exceeded our expectations," Schultz said. "It was in excellent shape mechanically," he said. "Mark," of Antioch, was to have picked the car up Thursday, June 4. He works two jobs.

"He had forgotten he had even bought a ticket," said Schultz of winner Mark (who did not write a last name on his ticket, but did write his telephone number).

Antioch Postmaster Thomas Prince and Gurnee American Legion Chapter 771 Commander Carolyn Mahoney each presented $500 donations to the benefit fund for Pilcher's three children.

It was estimated that between 1,500 and 1,800 people came to the auction and raffle benefit. "We had great support from the people and the community," Schultz said.

Strack knows chocolate morsels. Phillip Strack, of Antioch, guessed the correct number of Nestle 12-ounce semi-sweet morsel bags produced by Nestle USA Chocolate and Confection Division in 1997. He made his guess at the 12th Annual Burlington Chocolate Festival, where Cheap Trick played an evening concert. The corporation made 41,416,440 bags and Strack guessed 41,250,000. There were about 1,999 other, wrong, guesses. What did the first prize winner receive? Nestle merchandise.

Susan A. Vancil at the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission wrote to the Village to express thanks for Claude LeMere's presentation to them about the William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center. LeMere is the village community development director. "Please know that many in the audience came up to me and told me how impressed they were with your project and with your enthusiasm."

The five dancers in this group are Jessica Jacobs, Katie Bregenzer, Tracie Zersen, Alexis Dayhuff, and Erin Storc.

The instructor for both groups is Kathy Pierce.

There are 500 students at American Stars of Dance ranging in age from 3 to adults.

"Our students come from Wisconsin, Gurnee, Antioch, Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, Spring Grove," she said. "We have gymnastics, tumblers, and dance."

"We will be starting pom-poms and point-ballet," she said.

The two upcoming dance recitals will feature costumes, lighting, many of the studio dancers, and some surprise parent dancers.

There will be a Blues Brothers Tribute performed by sons and fathers. "Soul Man" will be done by the studio's young male dancers at which point their dads will come out and dance also.

Tickets for the recital are sold at the door for $6. The studio is located on Depot Street across from the train station.

Antioch Chamber creates community, business cable TV ads

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Four commercials to promote the village, 12 merchants, and area water recreation will appear on TCI Cable Network during June, July, and August.

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry's CAN Committee and the Merchant Group are taking the initiative to create the commercials and participate in part of the production costs. The Village of Antioch and the Foxwaterway Agency have been asked to participate in the commercials.

"This is not just a downtown

Antioch chamber project," said Barbara Porch, president of the chamber. She said that whenever merchants can get the name of the village out and bring people into the village, it benefits everyone.

There will be four commercials each one of which will feature three merchants. The commercials will feature opening shots of Antioch as a place to visit. They will close with information about water recreation in the Chain of Lakes area.

"Each of the four commercials will be different," Porch told the chamber and merchants at their monthly meeting on May 21. Three merchants will be featured in the mid-portion of the commercial. The visuals at the beginning and end will be similar, however.

"We're looking at 885 spots over a three-month period," Porch said. They will run between 6 a.m. and 11 p.m. starting in early June.

Immediate results of the campaign may be difficult to see, Porch cautioned the group. Member Wendy Maston, co-owner of Quilter's Dream at 902 Main Street, agreed and said that an article that appeared in the Chicago Tribune 18 months ago still attracts people to her place.

Porch said that if the group thinks this advertising project is successful and works well, it may be possible to think of future promotions like it.

After "Fen-Phen," All Natural Tennen III Demand Skyrockets!

With the recent removal by the FDA of the diet drug "Fen-Phen," users are looking for a safe and effective alternative. They, as well as health care professionals, have found one that was recently introduced to the U.S. Unlike "Fen-Phen," "Redux," and "Fen-Pro," Tennen III dietary supplement and diet plan is a totally natural, totally safe product sold inexpensively over-the-counter in the diet section of health food stores nationally.

Manufactured and distributed by Buy Wise Distributors, Tennen III comes from Canada, where it has been sold nationwide for six years. President Cory Chiarello developed the product with the safety and overall health of the customer in mind. The supplement is an innovative combination of vitamins, minerals, and botanicals that help curb appetite and speed up metabolism. The capsules consist of all natural ingredients, including kelp, beet powder and gymnema, which lower "sweet cravings." Tennen III does not contain ephedrine, guarana, kola nut, or any artificial coloring of flavoring, sugar, preservatives, petroleum products, dyes, wheat, corn flour, or milk products. Many people who are diabetic, or have heart or lung conditions, can take Tennen III without side effects.

The "Diet Plan," which is included with the Tennen II product, works on chemical breakdowns, so the company advises against modifications and substitutions if possible. If certain foods cannot be tolerated, customers may call the toll free number to talk to a representative about possible substitutions. The diet consists of 1000 calories per day, and is following on a "3 day on - 4 days off" schedule. You continue on this cycle for as many weeks as it takes to reach and maintain your goals. The capsules are taken every day, two before breakfast and two before dinner. As with all diets, a physician's advice is recommended.

Tennen III is being sold across Canada, a country where 27% of the population is overweight. Introduced to the American population in October 1996, it has grown in distribution to over 7,000 pharmacies and health food stores by Fall 1997. The demand has recently become so great that additional plants are now producing Tennen III to the company's rigid specifications.

Certainly part of the success of Tennen III can be attributed to the company's marketing approach, which supports its dealer network with national and local advertising, and services the user with a toll-free "help line" to answer questions that will help to not only lose weight, but also to keep it off - naturally and safely. Many diet products available today suppress appetites by speeding up the heart rate, or by raising blood pressure - both potentially dangerous to the user's health. The company believes that by taking Tennen III capsules and plan has helped thousands of overweight people shed unwanted, and unhealthy pounds. While making no claims to be a "miracle pill," the company knows that Tennen III will help anyone lose weight, feel healthier, and do it in a natural, long lasting, and safe manner.

Date-rape seminar defines precautions

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

High school males and females need to think about date-rape.

To help them along, the Student Assistance Program at Antioch Community High School hosted a discussion on that topic in the school Commons.

"Some schools would rather bury their head than face this issue," said Joseph Dillmann, a registered pharmacist.

Also speaking to the students, teachers, and school administrators who were present were: Jane Hunter, coordinator of community education for the Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault, and Jim Ruth, a detective with the Antioch Police Department.

Dillmann spoke about the use of the drugs Rohypnol and gamma hydroxybutyrate, GHB. Rohypnol also is called roofies, Roche (the name of the drug manufacturer), rope, and ruffies. GHB is known also as Georgia Home Boy and salty water.

Rohypnol is a sedative and sleeping pill made by Roche Laboratories. "It is not a legal drug here in the United States," Dillmann said.

There is no taste to the dime-sized white tablet, no odor, and it dissolves almost instantly. It takes 20 to 30 minutes to have an effect, and reaches its peak level for one to two hours. It remains in the body for eight hours.

A person on Rohypnol becomes drowsy, confused, and suffers memory impairment and amnesia. The amnesia can last for eight to 10 hours. The withdrawal symptoms include headache, muscle pain, hallucination, and seizures.

Alcohol reinforces the effects of Rohypnol. "They're perfect twins in a date-rape scene," said Dillmann.

Dillmann said that a person should never leave a drink unattended. This is true for all drinks, alcohol and soda. Drinks that have been left alone or not monitored by the person drinking them should be thrown away.

"(GHB) is a natural neural hormone that acts in your brain," Dillmann said. "It is sold as a body builders aid."

"It acts as an anesthetic," he said. At low dosage levels, it creates amnesia and the body can not move. It is a sedative.

"(GHB) affects respiratory abilities," Dillmann said. "It prevents a person from breathing properly."

He said that it is more dangerous than Rohypnol.

Jane Hunter, of LaCasa, spoke to the group very directly about sexual control.

LaCasa, located in Gurnee, "serves the needs of survivors of sexual assault and abuse." Staff services can be reached at 847-872-7799. It is answered 24-hours, 365 days a year.

"Rape and sexual assault are both the same thing," she said. It is any forced, unwanted sexual contact, no matter how slight. It becomes date-rape when people know one another. Contact includes attempted or actual oral, anal, or vaginal penetration.

Hunter said that because a person consents to an activity one time does not mean they consent over and over again. Society thinks that one consent sets the path of the relationship.

"We know that is not true," she said.

Hunter cited some statistics by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. One out of every three females will be sexually assaulted in her lifetime. One out of six males will be sexually assaulted in his lifetime.

The brochure she distributed about LaCasa services contained other statistics. "Over 80 percent of assault victims are attacked by someone they know and trust."

She also pointed out to the audience that in the State of Illinois, people who have had alcohol are not considered to consent to sexual activity. And, people under the age of 17 do not consent to sexual activity either.

"Sexual assault is not a crime of passion. Sex is used as a weapon," Hunter said. "Sex becomes the weapon of choice to degrade a person."

He refused the opportunity to take a breathalyzer test. Jenkins provide bond of $100 and his driver's license pending a court date of June 23 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan.

Police stop van; DUI driver thinks he's in Wis.

On May 24 around midnight, a Lake Villa police officer was forced to swerve into oncoming traffic to avoid an accident with an oncoming white Dodge van driving in the wrong lane.

The officer turned and followed the vehicle south on State Route 83 with emergency lights activated.

The driver of the van, David E. Webster, 43, of Pell Lake Wisconsin, refused to stop.

At the intersection of Apollo and Route 83, the van again drove in the northbound on coming traffic lane for over a block with officers in pursuit.

During this time the van swerved from side to side and jumped up the curb and onto the sidewalk for a distance.

The vehicle did not stop until it was blocked from proceeding by another police cruiser.

The driver, Webster, fell to the ground, when asked to step out of the vehicle and mumbled incoherently. He kept insisting he was in the state of Wisconsin.

Webster was charged with driving under the influence (breath alcohol .23) improper lane usage, no seat belt and driving on the sidewalk.

Pomp, circumstance for all ages

Tis the season where students of all ages are celebrating a major accomplishment: graduation. Whether you will be receiving a diploma from pre-school, kindergarten, junior high school, high school, trade school or college-congratulations. Graduating from any grade is quite a major milestone in one's life and should be well recognized with as big a party as mom and dad will swing for. To you little ones who have progressed up the ranks of walking, talking, and potty training, graduating from pre-school calls for another entry in your baby book.

To those of you making the jump from kindergarten to first grade it means lunch at school and no afternoon nap.

To those of you who just graduated from junior high: a gentle warning. Although you were top bananas in junior high, the head honchos, the most respected, the most feared, the king of the school, a rude awakening awaits you next year. Unfortunately you will find yourselves at the bottom of the food chain. Get ready to suffer at the hands of the upper classmen, especially if you have older sibling already in high school.

Upper classmen, especially those related to you, can make your life hell. Believe me, you would be much better off having your mother following you around school all day tucking in your shirt and wiping food stains off your face with her spit-soaked handkerchief than to be singled out by those spirited seniors.

To high school graduates, this is your time of independence. Whether it be off to the college of your choice or out into the working world. Most of you will be on your own for the first time, away from curfews, chores and that family quality time. Yes, you will be out there supporting yourself, paying bills, or perhaps skipping classes and spending Spring Break in Florida. In the back of your mind though you still feel secure in knowing that if things get a little tight or ends just don't seem to meet, mom and dad always have a well stocked refrigerator and plenty of laundry soap.

You think you are ready to cut the apron strings, but don't quite snip them all the way just yet. For those of you who are graduates of college and have that certificate in your hand proclaiming you are now qualified to perform your chosen field, welcome to the Reality 101. Now is when you will find yourself becoming respectable, settling down, finding a decent job, perhaps even getting married, having 2.3 children, buying a house with a picket fence and a sensible car. In other words you have reached life's ultimate destination: you have become clones of your parents.

Oh, it might not happen tomorrow or the next day but that eye opening day will sneak up on you before you know it and slap you square in the face one morning while you are looking at the reflection in the mirror or groaning as you get up out of bed or hollering at the children. Who would have ever thought it would happen to them. So congratulations to all of you and hopefully you will be successful in your future endeavors and if not, remember, mom and dad still keep the spare house key under the fake rock in the garden.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

THE CLIPBOARD

Guest Columnist:
Greg Kidder

McKnight is the real deal

Greg Kidder is a 1995 graduate of Libertyville High School, and has a unique perspective on Lukas McKnight, Libertyville's catcher and one of the best baseball players in the area.

As I walked up to the Libertyville High School baseball field last week, I noticed that a few things had changed since I graduated in 1995. There's a new scoreboard, a new centerfield fence, and the varsity team has new uniforms.

One thing, however, has remained strikingly consistent—number 7 is still behind the plate. It's been over three years since McKnight walked through the gym doors for varsity baseball practice as a freshman. He was greeted by cold stares and whispers. It was my senior year, and we were a team that returned 10 lettermen from a 26-10 season the year before. We weren't about to concede that a freshman might help out our club. As that season progressed, we soon learned that Lukas McKnight was a player that could help anybody's club.

Four conference titles and four 30-win seasons later, McKnight is finally winding down his career as a Wildcat. Libertyville had only two 30-win seasons in its history before McKnight got behind the plate. In 1995, we thought we had done something special finishing the year 32-5 and setting a new school record for wins.

That record lasted for all of one year, and now it seems the 30-win barrier is an expectation rather than a milestone. To call this stretch "The McKnight Era" would ignore names like Mantucca, Thompson, Fulbright and Oakley, but Luke has made his presence felt each and every year.

Glancing through the papers this season, the name Lukas McKnight appears just as often as it did in the pre-season gossip three years ago. The rumors of whether he should play varsity have been replaced by whether he should play in the pros.

He's now a full-fledged leader and a legitimate superstar. As usual, McKnight has taken all the success in stride. He's a ballplayer, and strives to be nothing more, nothing less. I had the privilege of playing with Luke on three separate teams, one with the high school and two with the American Legion.

I even had the opportunity to pitch with him behind the plate. He's never the biggest, strongest, or fastest guy on the diamond, but he still outplays everyone and has fun doing it. Throughout all the pressure and expectations, McKnight still just shows up to play ball. Always has, hopefully, always will.

Whether or not he'll make it in Major League Baseball I can't say. But I can say that this guy is the real deal. Whatever his next step may be, Libertyville baseball will miss Lukas McKnight—the person, the performer, the freshman and the senior. And most of all, the ballplayer.

Gooch ends career at state meet

By STEVE PERTERSON
Staff Reporter

The end of an era came when Dave Gooch ran in the 200 meters semifinals at the Illinois Boys State Track Meet.

He just missed qualifying on a hot day in Charleston, Ill., for the finals. He ended an Antioch career with 12 records, just shy of No. 13 he sought in the discus.

Because his younger brother Quinn and his family is moving to Arizona, The end of the Gooch family blood line of Sequoits concluded. "We have had six Gooch children in Antioch sports, two girls and four boys. It will be a tough time replacing them," said Antioch coach Norm Hahn.

Gooch had a 11:21 in the preliminaries of the 100 meter dash. He scratched from that event to go for the discus.

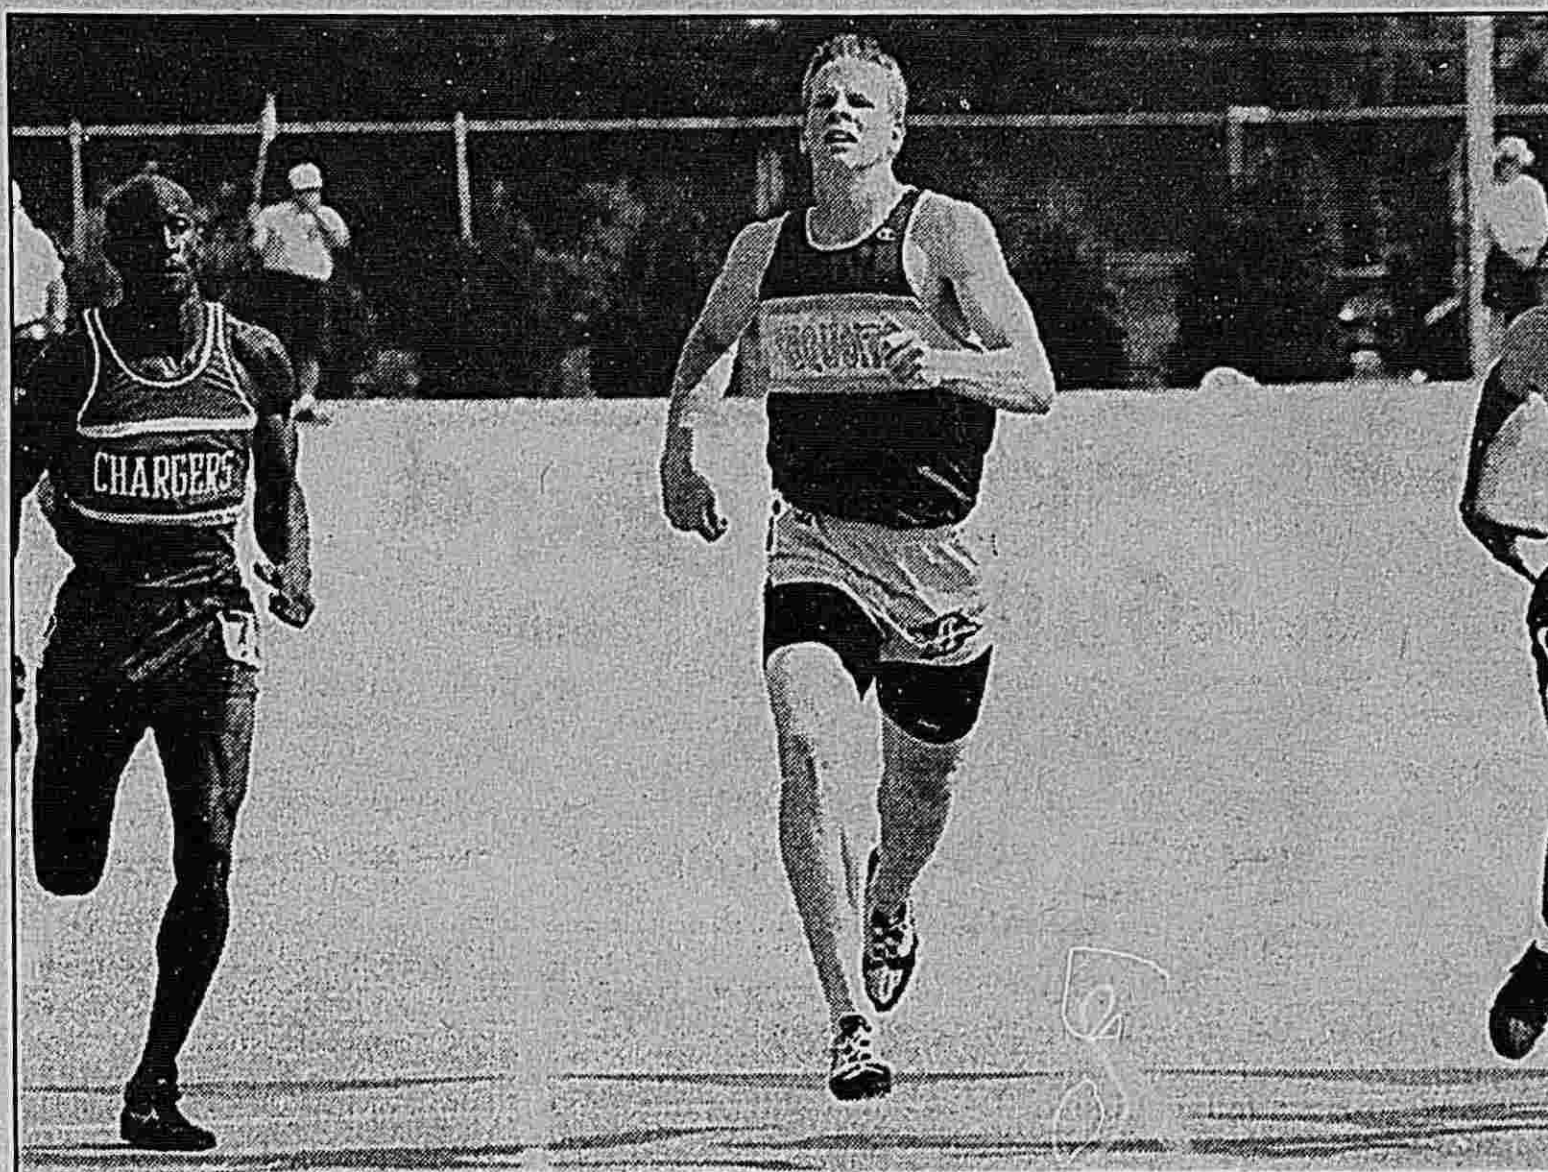

He threw a 157-5 in the discus, his second best throw ever.

"He needed 159 to qualify, so he was not happy," said Hahn.

Gooch had to wait five hours for the 200 semis, where he was 22:50.

"He ran well. He won his preliminary heat, but he is so competitive. I told him on the way back that he had a heckuva career and think about the positives," said Hahn.

Gooch, who injured his knee the first game of the football season, will spend a two year Mormon mission and hopes to continue on in football.

"He was the only three-sport qualifier for the state meet. He went down as a sophomore in the discus and the last two years in the discus, 100 and 200. The kids really recognize his abilities. He is a quiet performer and co-captain," said Hahn.

Other seniors bidding farewell to ACHS were: Brian Terryberry as co-captain; Brian Potter in the shot put and discus, Kyle Wisniewski and Jason Jenison in the weight events.

Sophomore Don Lackey in the high jump leads the returning Sequoits. The freshmen-sophomore team was fourth in the North Suburban Conference meet and won its own invitational.

Sequoits reach regional final on extra-base hit

Extra-base hits always come in handy in a baseball team's offense.

But when May turns to June, they can take a load of pressure off, or put more of a burden on, in regional games. Antioch benefited from the long ball three times in a 9-3 regional semifinal win over Waukegan.

"When they scored first, having the home runs took the pressure off. Any coach hopes for long ball hits. This team has around 30," said ACHS coach Paul Petty.

Reggie Hughes' 14th of the year put Antioch ahead to stay Saturday at 3-1. Chris Groth hit a solo shot to center field at Al Grosche Field to conclude the scoring. The third was by Ryan Clutts, an unlikely homerun source.

"He said he has not hit one since eighth grade," said Petty.

Karl Richter kept the ground ball outs coming in earning the win.

"He had a bad outing in the last regular-season game. To be successful, Richter's recipe includes none-to-one walk, no hits batsman and a boatload of ground balls," said Petty. Richter struck out two en route to his team's 25th win.

North Chicago was brushed off by Antioch in the first round, 16-1. Petty had praise for the Warhawks.

"I have been there. I give the North Chicago coach and his players a lot of credit. It takes a lot to come out each day knowing you will probably get beat," said Petty.

Second baseman George Fuchs had two triples and two RBIs and Groth had three hits and four RBIs for Antioch.

ACHS battled Warren in the regional final with a spot in the June 6 Barrington sectional at stake.

Competitive spirit guides Silarski

Four young pitchers reported to freshman softball practice, ready to impress Antioch softball coaches.

Jamie Silarski early on showed that competitive edge which has earned her all-conference honors in high school and in one season into a college pitching career.

This spring, Silarski and Corrine Henningfeld of Wauconda combined to have a Lake County influence on the Carroll College softball team in Waukesha, Wis. as the duo were the starting pitchers.

"I found I liked it a lot. We did some pre-conditioning before the season and I got to work with a great pitching coach, Christa Getz. She would work with your delivery and not make major changes," said Silarski.

Silarski is back at Antioch High, her alma mater, working an off-season job.

Two games immediately come to mind when Silarski reflects on the regional championship and share of the North Suburban Conference crown in 1997.

"There was the Mundelein game that we played at night (at Williams Park in Antioch) against Mundelein and the regional final. There was not

Trio named All-NSC after softball year ends

Antioch's softball squad managed one post-season win, but could not put together another in Waukegan regional action.

An 8-7 win over Lake Forest was accomplished in dramatic fashion in nine innings, but Stevenson ended the Sequoits' season in the semifinals.

Melissa Bock, a junior, scored the winning run after she singled in the seventh. After an error, she scored on a wild pitch.

"Lake Forest is a good team. We played solid defensively and got the key hit," said Antioch coach Steve Wapon.

Catcher Megs Kotlarz was 2-4 with a single, two runs and a walk. Also helping the Antioch offense was Jenny Minor at 2-4 with a walk. Kristen Scopel, who earned the win, was 2-5 with two RBIs, a double and single.

Antioch concluded the season at 16-16.

Defensively, junior Carrie Haglund made a diving catch in right field and had an assist on a play at home. Nicole Langley, a senior, had 10 putouts for 200 for the year.

She, along with Kristen Scopel and Shannah Jaburek, were Antioch's All-NSC selections.

Scopel finished at 14-9 on the mound. Against the Scouts, she struck out 11 with no walks.

Stevenson ousted the Sequoits 3-0 in the regional semifinal round.

"They played great defense. We hit the ball, but right at them. There was only one strike out," said Wapon.

Post-season accolades included Langley, Jaburek and Scopel as All-NSC. Jaburek and Scopel were named team MVPs.

"Langley was named team captain and did it with the glove. She had only seven errors in 200 chances at first base," said Wapon.

Returning players include freshman pitcher Abby Thomas, sophomore pitcher Kaellen O'Connell; freshman outfielder Kanuth and designated hitter junior Dana Spandet.

"They all gained valuable experience," said Wapon.

a lot of pressure - the adrenaline takes over and you just play," said Silarski.

The Sequoits were 27-12 last spring, losing to Mundelein in the sectional semi-finals. Silarski was 18-7.

Silarski recalls support from her parents as a key to her success to all-conference status last year as well as solid coaching by Steve Wapon, her high school mentor.

"My parents would always be there. My Dad used to catch for me," she said.

Silarski worked on her pitches each and every off season at AccuSwift pitching school in Silver Lake, Wisc.

Silarski said it was tough to say good-bye to the seniors after a 12-15 season. She said Carroll College leaders included captain Sarah Maier and catcher Kristy Saselman, from the Rockford area.

Silarski, a freshman, is a biology major.

Silarski's accomplishments for coach Doug Lange's team at Carroll include showing off her hitting skills at the school's Jean Kilgour Tournament. She was 13-of-13 in that tournament and won the Silver Bat Award. She had a .583 batting average, with 5 doubles, 5 walks and 5 RBIs in league games. was 6-8 in 91 innings with an ERA of 1.75 in league games. She fanned 35 hitters.

She will play softball in Milwaukee this summer.

Henningfeld, meanwhile, was 6-7 with an ERA of 3.24 with 31 strikeouts. Silarski's high school coach, Wapon, recalled some of the moments which showed Silarski's competitive spirit.

"We lost an early-season game to Libertyville and she was so upset. The next game against Libertyville, she was thrown out at home plate for not sliding. She encouraged her teammates so much and we won by 10 runs. We swept Stevenson for the first time in a long time, and we won 1-0 against Grant in the regional," said Wapon.

"She was a great talent. She was able to move the ball around," he added.

"She was also a very sound defensive player. She would field bunts well," said Wapon.

That talent continued this spring, as she was defensive player of the year for Carroll.

"Her leadership was by example. As a freshman coming in, you knew she had talent. She was one of four pitchers who were on that team. Herself and Stephanie Haenchen made it all four years," said Wapon.

Talking Health

by Dr. Scott Reiser, D.C.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR NEWBORNS

In the early 1970's there was a great deal of talk about the psychological trauma that an infant suffers during the birth process, but the physical trauma that may occur during birth was rarely mentioned.

Delivery places tremendous pressure on a baby's cervical vertebrae that can result in displacement of the delicate neck structures. The problem can be compounded by the fact that an infant's head is disproportionately heavy, placing a strain on the infant's underdeveloped cervical area.

Many chiropractors recommend that a newborn have a spinal examination as soon as possible after delivery to correct any structural problems and to help prevent future adjustments, and parents find that pediatric chiropractic care is effective in reducing the incidence of colic, digestive sensitivities, and allergies in newborns. We mean it literally when we suggest that preventive health care should begin early.

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. Dr. Reiser has served the Lake and McHenry County area for over 10 years.

Lake Villa Lightning 13-year-olds open league play 2-2

The Lake Villa Lightning, Lake Villa Township Baseball's 13-year-old Traveling Team, started Pony "A" league play. The regular season of play in Mike's Memorial league, as affiliate of the AABC, ends in July.

The Lightning, (11-5) have so far managed a split over the first four games with wins over Winthrop Harbor, 10-2 and Gurnee, 10-6 and then losing to McHenry, 10-2 and Grant, 11-8.

In the Gurnee game, pitching was the difference on both sides of the diamond. Lake Villa's staff struck out 14 Gurnee batters and only walking four while Gurnee managed only 5 K's but walked 10 LV batters in 6 innings, many of whom scored. Chad Stroup got the victory and went 5 solid innings, giving up 3 earned runs on 6 singles and striking out 10. Nick Blocker finished for his 2nd save of the year with 4 strikeouts of his own over 2 innings.

The 3rd inning was the key to the victory as LV overcame a 3-2 deficit with a 5 run, 5 hit outburst and exchanged runs the rest of the way. Gurnee's defense made a number of outstanding defensive plays to rob

Lake Villa hitters and keep the game as close as it was. Blocker (2 hits, run) Scott Wold (2 hits, double, rbi) and Ryan Myers (hit, 2 runs, rbi, stolen base) led the balanced offense and held Gurnee in check with decent defensive efforts. Other getting hits and scoring runs for the Lightning included Sean Walker (hit, 2 rbi's) Brian Blanas (hit, run, rbi), Brad Hoogerhyde (hit, run) Kyle Robinson (hit, run) C. J. Walleck (2 runs, stolen base) Greg Kruse (run, stolen base) and Brett Bairstow (run).

McHenry was never threatened and won easily as they built a 5-0 lead after 2 innings and took advantage of the 9 Lake Villa walks and 4 errors throughout the game. They made all the plays and forced the Lightning to earn everything they got by only walking 3 LV batters and committing 1 error. Sean Walker started and took the loss as he and Ryan Myers each gave up 5 runs.

The Lightning only scored in the 3rd with Scott Wold (double) and Matt Lukemeyer each stoking hits and scoring runs, but that was pretty much it for the offense. Others getting hits included Brad Hoogerhyde, Chad Stroup, and Kyle Robinson, who also made a fine running catch in center field late in the game. Greg Kruse, Scott Coles, and Sean Walker also reached base in the game.

Against Grant, the Lake Villa pitching was touched for 11 hits—5 of which went for extra bases—and 7 walks. The Lightning capitalized on the numerous Grant errors to stay in the game and led 4-1 after 2 innings. LV maintained their lead at 6-4 entering the last of the 4th until a 5 run outburst gave Grant the lead and the game. Nick Blocker took the loss in relief of the starter Chad Stroup.

Scott Wold was the pitching highlight striking out 6 of the 8 batters he faced.

The hitting leaders for the game were Scott Coles who started rallies in both the 1st and 4th innings, Matt Poleck (2 hits, double, run, 2 rbi's) and Brian Blanas.

U-10 Typhoon tie Panthers 1-1

The Lindenhurst Typhoon (Boys U-10, NISL, Bronze Division) found themselves in a real soccer match with the Carol Stream Panthers. The Typhoon got a goal early in the first quarter from halfback Alex McKenzie who placed the ball deftly out of the reach of the Panther goalie. However, the Panthers came back and scored a goal of their own to tie the game up at the end of the first quarter.

The second and third quarters were very evenly matched with no goals scored by either team. The Typhoons had a strong defense with goalies Brett Carlson, Eric Voight and Kyle Kozuch during the last three quarters and fullbacks Alan Kroeger, Patrick McLane, and Joe Barlowe doing a tremendous job of protecting their goal.

The fourth quarter of the game was clearly dominated by the Typhoon, with shots taken by Patrick McLane, Alex McKenzie, Ian Hunter, Danny Braun, Dany Alvarez, Ryan Knupp, and Darren Nordstrom, but nobody seemed to be able to get it past the outstanding Carol Stream goalie.

The Typhoon now have a 2-2-2 record.

U-9 Dynamo defeats Blaze 3-1

The Lindenhurst Dynamo (Boys, U-9, NISL, Bronze) defeated the Southwest Blaze of Chicago by the score of 3-1. The first half of the game was very evenly matched as both teams went into halftime scoreless. At the beginning of the third quarter, Andy Schultz trapped the ball at midfield and sent a perfect picture pass ahead of the Blaze defense to Aaron Nichols who took it in for the first score of the game.

Brett McKenzie headed in the second score for the Dynamo off a shot attempt from Aaron Nichols and Scott Newman tallied the only other goal off a throw in from right defensive men, Matthew Reimer.

Midfielders (Austin Hahn, Jeremy Pohlman, Marek Smith) consistently lead the (U-9) attack as the defense (Peter Niles, Vivek Gollapudi, Christopher Meyers, John Werchek) played hard and stopped a number of blazers' attempt to score. The Lindenhurst Dynamo remain undefeated in the bronze division.

A new chapter

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

Almost 100 years ago, Waukegan received a unique gift. Steel magnate Andrew Carnegie donated funds toward the construction of a public library overlooking Lake Michigan.

At that time, few people had ever heard of a public library. Most libraries were private and only available to people of means. Carnegie wanted to make them accessible to all people. He launched a nationwide effort and spent a substantial portion of his wealth to build public libraries in communities throughout the country.

When Waukegan's Carnegie Library opened on the corner of Washington Street and Sheridan Road in 1903 it was the only public library in Lake County.

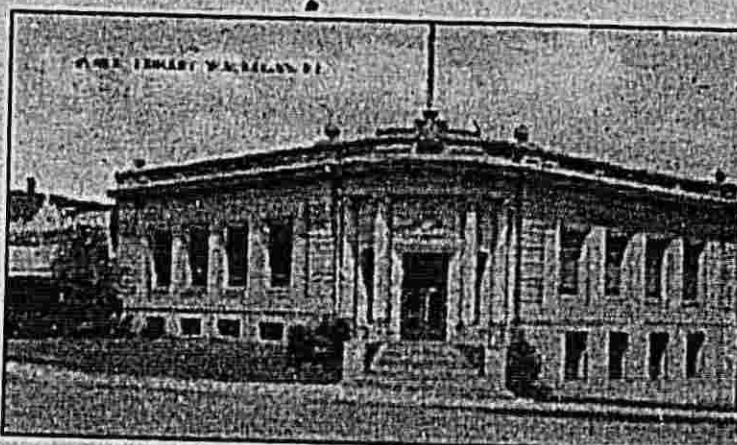

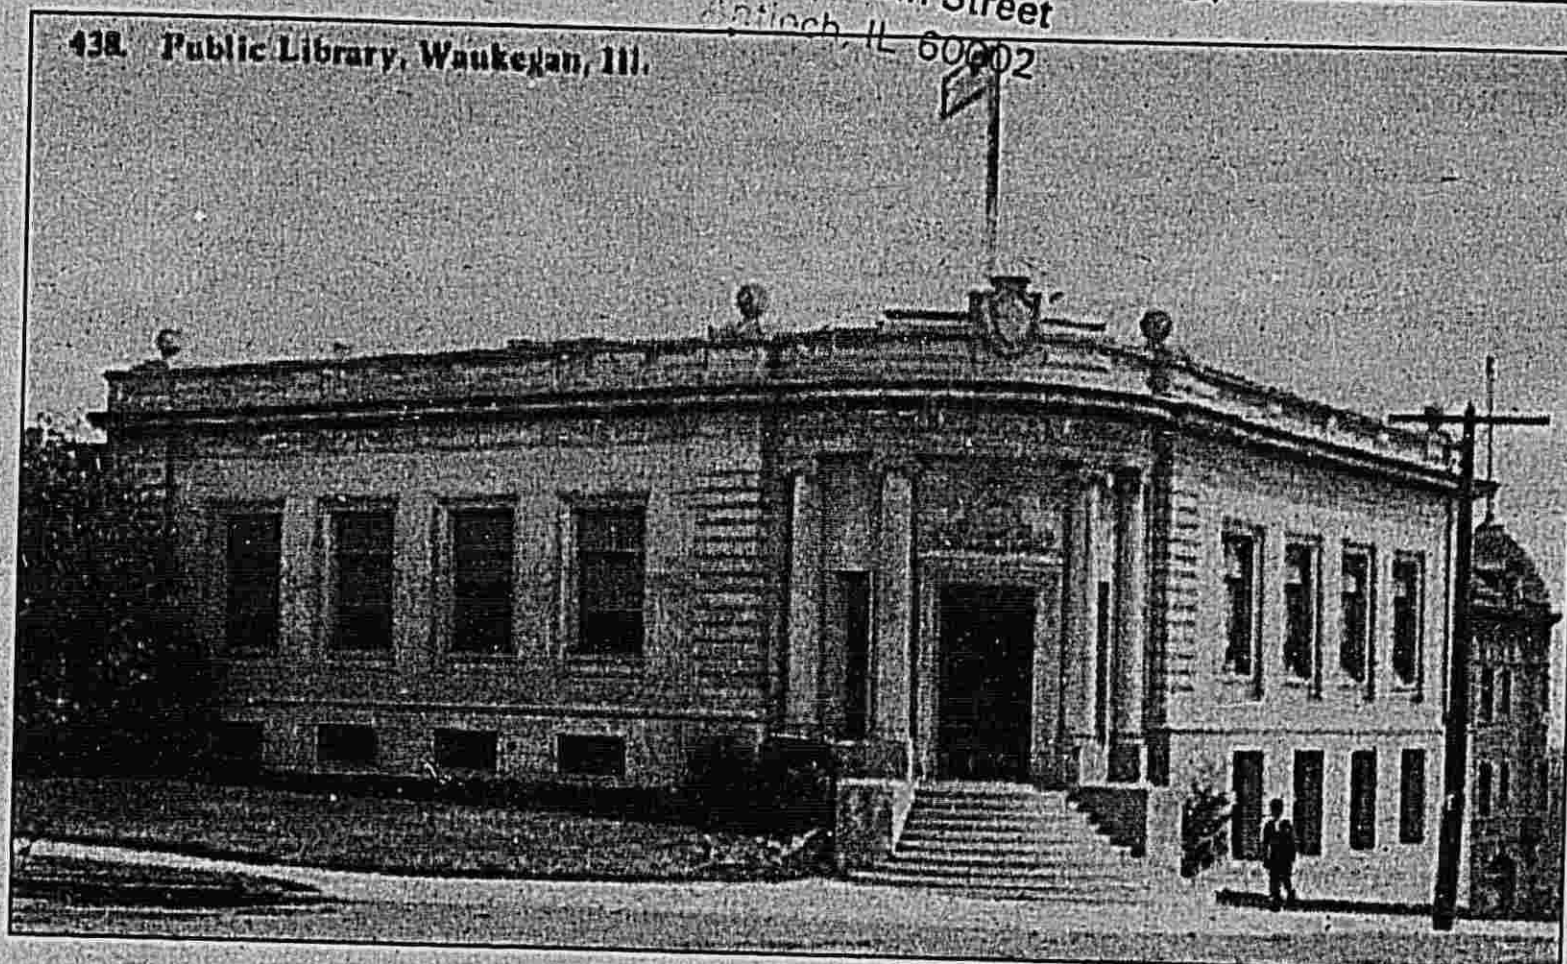

"People came from all over the county to use the library," said Jack

Potter, head of the Sunrise Foundation that is working to revitalize Waukegan's downtown district. "Just about anyone in Lake County who is older than 50 will tell you they used it."

But the building closed in the 1960s when Waukegan opened a new library. For the most part, the facility remained empty for the next 30 years and eventually became an eye sore in the heart of Waukegan's downtown section.

It came to such a state of disrepair that the Waukegan City Council allocated funds to have the building destroyed in the early 1990s. It would not be standing today if it weren't for the efforts of a group of local citizens who recognized the

Touting the freedom flag

Grayslake resident believes black and white American flag illustrates nation's basic principle

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

Thirty years ago, Hank deGroh began wearing a pin on his lapel as a statement of what he believes in.

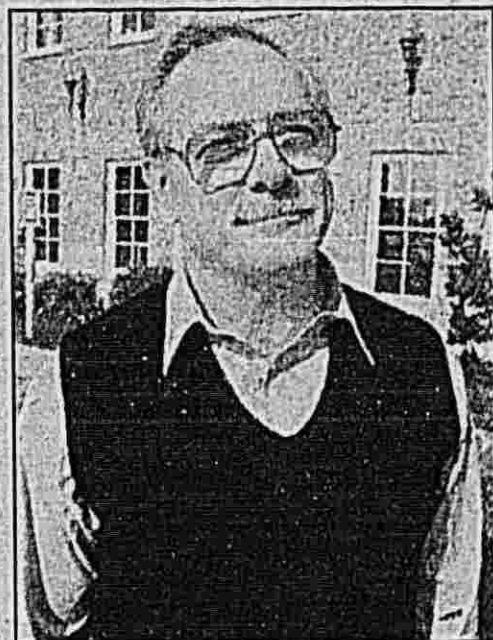

The pin, a black and white replica of the American flag, was made for him by a jeweler. The Grayslake resident believes the rendering of the flag in black and white points out one of the basic principles of America—that this country is for all men from one end of the color spectrum to the other, from the deepest black to whitest white and all men in between.

DeGroh has worn the pin for 30 years. He asked a jeweler to design it after Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was assassinated, April 4, 1968.

"I believe we are kept apart by the very vocal extremist on both sides of a racial division," deGroh said. "Most of us are reluctant to get involved when someone spouts off on either side of this issue. By wearing the pin on your lapel, you can quietly voice your position and give support to others afraid to disagree with the big-ots."

DeGroh wore a black armband to work Friday, April 5, 1968, to express his mourning for Dr. King, the day after his assassination. At the time, he worked in a downtown Chicago office building.

"I was surprised how many of my white co-workers were concerned about race relations and were afraid to speak out," deGroh said. "I remember them telling me I should wear a coat over my black arm band, so I wouldn't be a target in the race riots."

Less than a week after King's assassination, deGroh had the Freedom Pin designed and had spoken to a then State Representative Eugene Schlickman, who served the Arlington Heights area, about the pin. DeGroh lived in Arlington Heights at the time.

"I've been wearing mine since 1968," deGroh said. "I've always wanted to go back and have them mass produced and sell them at cost for people to display their feelings."

He believes racism still plays a role in society, 30 years later.

"The Freedom Flag is just as important today as it was 30 years ago," he said.

DeGroh was raised in a home where he was taught from an early age that all men are created equal and that all Americans have the same rights.

"My father had fled Nazi Germany. Once he arrived in America, we believe he added the 'de' to our name so that no one could assume his ethnicity was German. He never spoke German again and joined the National Guard. When people asked him what he was he said: 'I

Warfield trial set for June 8

The bench trial of former Libertyville Community High School English teacher Andrew Warfield is slated for Monday, June 8.

Warfield is set to appear before Judge Stephen Walter in courtroom C-405 at the Lake County Courthouse at 1:30 p.m.

Warfield faces a charge of misdemeanor battery stemming from an alleged incident involving a female LCHS student.

Warfield allegedly wrote a pass to get the girl out of school and took her off campus to a nearby forest preserve where the student claims he kissed her on the neck.

Warfield claims he does not recall kissing the student. Warfield was fired by the LCHS Board of Education on Dec. 22, 1997, after the administration learned of the incident and an investigation into the 45-year-old Evanston man by the Department of Children and Family Services.

A tenured teacher at the high school for 11 years, Warfield was known for his questionable teaching practices.

Students came to Warfield's defense prior to and after his firing.

Warfield was also charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.—By Jason J. King

No more traveling in plastic bags

Suitcase giveaway gives luggage, dignity to children

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

As a foster parent for 21 years, Wadsworth resident Mary McKeown had a concern. Every child that came to stay at her house carried his or her belongings in a big plastic garbage bag. Not a single one owned a suitcase.

The Oprah Winfrey Show gave her an idea. "A group of teens on the program had the idea of collecting suitcases for foster children," she said. "And I thought I could do that."

She started a suitcase collection at her church with the goal to donate them to the Catholic Charities foster care program in Lake County. In the meantime, another Catholic Charities volunteer, Rose Brisske, also began collecting suitcases from schools and churches. In the end, they collected approximately 350 suitcases and duffel bags.

Catholic Charities invited foster parents and children to pick up free luggage at its Waukegan facility on May 21 and 22.

"There were some old and some new," said Charleen Williamson of Catholic Charities. "There were funky colored ones and plain ones. The important thing was letting children pick them out on their own. So many foster children rarely have a choice."

The suitcases not only provide a convenient way to carry things, they give foster children a boost of self-esteem.

"I didn't want the children I cared for to leave my house with those garbage bags," said Renee Isley, a foster parent who picked up suitcases during the giveaway event. "They deserve some dignity."

Isley, who takes in the average of 12 foster children per year, picked up two dozen suitcases. She thinks the giveaway was a great idea. "Even if you can't take in children, you can help them by donating suitcases," she said.

Catholic Charities' foster care program is one of the largest in Lake County. It is always looking for people to become licensed foster parents. Twice a month it holds informational meetings to explain the foster care program and licensing process. The next meetings will be held on June 10 and June 24 at 7 p.m. at the Catholic Charities facility, 671 S. Lewis Avenue in Waukegan. For more information, call (847) 782-4244.

CHAPTER: Library reborn

building's value.

"There's a spirit of place that evolved," said Potter. "It was built at a very strategic place on a bluff looking out on the lake. The panoramic view created a certain energy. We didn't want to destroy that spirit."

The group, which later became the Carnegie Preservation Project, was determined to prevent the City Council from carrying out its plan. They claimed that the City Council was failing to maintain the public trust since the land and the building were donated under the condition that they be maintained for the benefit of the community.

Internationally acclaimed author Ray Bradbury was among the original leaders of the Project. A native of Waukegan, he organized a series of events to build support for the building's restoration. A grassroots petition drive also substantially broadened support for the Project throughout the community.

In the end, the City Council not only canceled the demolition, but sold the building to the Project for $1.00 and donated the funds budgeted for the demolition toward the building's renovation.

Today, a group of volunteers are raising money to restore the building. They are also undertaking a substantial portion of the renovation themselves.

"I feel like an urban archeologist," said Bob Crombie, a volunteer who is leading the construction effort. "Over 100 years, you get a lot of layers of subflooring. We're working to get back to the original floor."

He said that a number of people who had used the library when they were younger were now helping out as volunteers.

"One volunteer was certain that the library had once had marble columns," he said. "We looked all over but couldn't find any marble. Then we examined a painted column and realized that it had once been faux marble."

The restoration has yielded some surprises. Two months ago, some volunteers were peeling a sub-floor and discovered a little room below the floor. They climbed down into the room and discovered that it even had a window.

"At this point, no one knows how the room was used," said Crombie.

Another interesting finding was that the original staircase fanned out like a clam shell. It was more elegant than the boxy staircase that stands today.

Crombie said that the next phase involves replacing parts of the structure that are too old to repair. The Project plans to replace the roof, plumbing, windows and wiring, as well as update the washrooms and install central air conditioning. The work is scheduled to be completed by the year 2000.

Future plans call for the structure to once again serve the community. Project president Wayne Munn envisions a facility that will help children prepare for careers in the technology industry.

"A career awareness center is important because it will expose kids to a wide variety of career opportunities," he said.

The Project plans to involve local businesses in creating a hands-on science and technology career-awareness center called Doorway to the Future. It will offer youth a positive vision of the future and their place in that future. Project members have already visited similar facilities in other states and are working with high technology manufacturers, such as Apple Computer and Kodak, to help develop the direction and vision.

Volunteers are now raising funds through numerous phonathons, banquets, yard sales and other events. Recently, a group of Waukegan High School students sponsored a show that raised $25,000 for the project.

"Overall, we've raised $200,000 and we still need to raise another $300,000 to complete the restoration," said Potter.

Potter said that the renovation of the Carnegie Library is a major piece in an overall plan to revitalize Waukegan's downtown and lakefront areas. The Sunrise Foundation is also working to renovate the Genessee Theater, a 1,800-seat theater built in 1925.

"There's great value in preservation," said Potter. "Our work is teaching our children that you shouldn't throw something away just because it is old."

FREEDOM: Black and white flag helps fight racism

am American.

DeGroh says his father valued the freedom America offered and him never forgot it. The family members were active leaders in the Southside community in which he was raised, which was a very ethnically diverse neighborhood.

It was at home deGroh was taught the lesson: 'you have to temper idealism with realism.'

His father went into business in Bridgeport where he built parts used in U.S. submarines and became angered when he was unable to employ African Americans in the plant because of the biases of the neighborhood and other workers.

"That was a lesson he learned in tempering idealism with realism," deGroh said.

DeGroh's career and family led him to settle in Grayslake 17 years ago. He recently retired and decided he wanted to devote his free time to resurrect his idea for the Freedom Flag.

"In the 30 years I have worn this pin, it has given me a lot of opportunity to discuss my feelings on racism," he said. "I have the time now to devote to furthering my message."

DeGroh made a presentation on the pin to members of the Grayslake Exchange Club a few weeks ago, and sold 30 of the pins.

A web site will soon be posted to explain the idea behind the pin, which can be purchased by sending $2.50 to: Freedom Flag, P.O. Box 7002, Grayslake, IL 60030-7002.

"This is the promised land Dr. King did see," de Groh said. "We just have to let the bigots and racists on both sides see it also."

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Electrical worker electrocuted

Island Lake—Wauconda fire and Island Lake police were unsuccessful in reviving a man who had been electrocuted last week. Carl V. McCall, Jr., 26, of Woodstock, was standing in front of an open ground-mounted transformer box when the accident occurred, said Wauconda Fire Chief David Dato.

He was one of three employees of Trench It, Inc., of Lake-moor, who were working on an electrical system at a residential construction site in the Campbell Woods area near Burr Oak and Carriage Hill Road in Island Lake at around 11:40 a.m. May 28, when one of them came into contact with a live electrical wire, authorities said.

McCall was transported to Good Shepherd Hospital near Barrington, where he was later pronounced dead, a hospital spokeswoman said. Cause of death was listed as electrocution, said Jim Whipper, Lake County deputy coroner. He was an apprentice journeyman lineman, and had been with the company since 1993, the past year working full time. Trench It, Inc. was working at the site as a sub-contractor for ComEd.

Students receive $1 million

Mundelein—They are now called graduates, but the Mundelein High School Class of 1998 can also be referred to as the $1 million Class.

The Class of 1998 will go down in history among the 37 graduating classes thus far as being the first to reach and surpass the $1 million mark in scholarship funds. "It is a wonderful accomplishment," Meisenheimer said.

When put together, all of the scholarships and grants, many which are renewable for a four-year period, brought the total dollar amount of financial aid graduates accepted to $1,126,555. That surpasses the $950,000 amount received by last year's graduating class.

Village to build senior housing

Wauconda—Not wanting to wait for developers to build it for them, Wauconda officials are planning to build their own senior apartment complex, using limited revenue bonds as funding, along with a $200,000 state grant.

"I believe if Wauconda can take care of their own, we should," said Mayor James Eschenbach, who added he has heard from many seniors over the years asking for some type of low-cost senior housing.

Anywhere from 96 to 120 apartments are proposed to be built in an assortment of building configurations, including four, two-story buildings; three, three-story buildings; and six, two-story buildings. The preliminary cost of the project ranges between $5.5 million and $6.6 million. A spring 1999 ground breaking is planned.

Date-rape seminar educates

Antioch—High school males and females need to think about date-rape. To help them along, the Student Assistance Program at Antioch Community High School hosted a discussion on that topic May 20 in the school Commons.

"Some schools would rather bury their head than face this issue," said Joseph Dillmann. He was the first of three speakers for the evening and is a registered pharmacist.

Also speaking to the students, teachers, and school administrators who were present were Jane Hunter, coordinator of community education for the Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault, and Jim Ruth, a detective with the Antioch Police Department.

Dillmann spoke about the use of the drugs Rohypnol and gamma hydroxybutyrate, GHB. Jane Hunter, of LaCasa, spoke to the group very directly about sexual control.

LaCasa, located in Gurnee, "serves the needs of survivors of sexual assault and abuse." Staff services can be reached at 872-7799. It is answered 24-hours, 365 days a year.

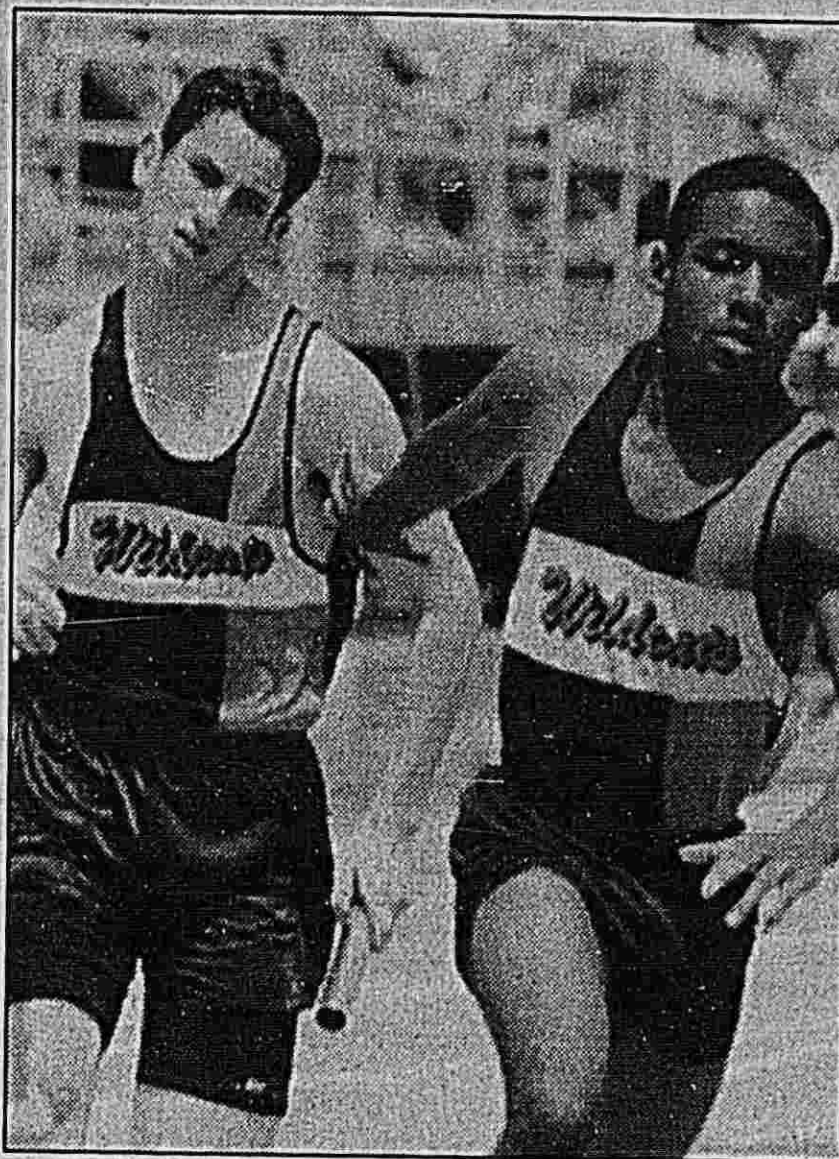

Det. Jim Ruth said that police agencies in the county have not had any cases of date-rape reported and prosecuted in Lake County. However, Ruth noted that the types of drugs that could be used in date-rape, such as Ketamine, have been stolen from Antioch area veterinarian clinics.

"LaCasa is one of our best allies," Ruth said. He said they are well organized and professional.

Ruth said sexual assault victims should seek immediate medical assistance and call the police.

He urged people to park in well-lit areas and keep their keys in their hands.

Ruth said that people should know their company, know what they are drinking, and be able to evaluate the personalities of the people with whom they associate.

Foundation aims to aid park district

Grayslake—To solve its monetary woes the Grayslake Park District is looking to a new foundation.

The private foundation, known as the Grayslake Community Park District Foundation, was formed with the intent of raising donations from private individuals and corporations and holding fundraisers to benefit the park district.

The foundation has been filed with the Secretary of States office and held its first meeting the last week of May.

At this time five people make up the board of directors. In the future that number will rise to nine members.

The foundation being private has no affiliation with the park district. However it was formed at the suggestion of the park district.

Attorney Richard Anderson, who sits on the foundation board, said "this is really a vehicle for people who want to donate to the park district as a tax vehicle and benefit from a tax deduction."

Students receive top honors

Round Lake—"They are an inspiration to their class."

So spoke Principal Margaret Egebrecht, about the 1998 Round Lake High School valedictorian and salutatorian. Valedictorian for 1998 is Rafael Johnson, and salutatorian is Anthony Mullins, both of Round Lake Beach.

These two outstanding students balance busy lives filled with sports and extracurricular activities, while still excelling at their studies. This is a tightrope that is often hard to walk, and requires real time management skills.

Rafael Johnson, 18, the valedictorian, is living proof of this balancing act. Playing basketball, running track, and doing what his parents taught him and his brothers and sisters to do, he has kept a grade point average of 4.45 his senior year.

Anthony Mullins, the salutatorian, with a grade point average of 4.42, agrees that balancing all your activities and having a lot of energy is key.

YMCA helps build a teen home

Lake Villa—They want to build a place of their own. A place where teens can hang out with friends, eat, play video games, and blow off some steam.

Kristi Lampel, business manager for Hastings Lake YMCA, and some local teens are turning a seldom used building in the East Camp of Hastings Lake YMCA, into the Lake Villa Teen Center.

Lampel attended a recent YMCA training session on reaching teens. The YMCA is able to provide facilities and activities for adults and younger kids, but is having a hard time reaching teens as a group.

"One of the critical issues is that they need a place of their own," stated Lampel.

Highway dept. scandal displayed

Gurnee—Blenders to paintings to tools were used by former Warren Township employee John Thomas.

The more than 40 items which Thomas and others purchased with highway department funds took up much of a township garage as they were displayed for the media Monday. Items, from as varied uses as CD holders to vacuum cleaners to vendors and a computer with only college work on it were shown.

The items could total $150,000.

"We were very conservative in the way we handled the indictments. If we were not sure if the item could be used for township purposes, we gave them the benefit of the doubt. The $200,000 is a conservative figure," said George Strickland, Lake County Assistant State's Attorney.

Approximately $12,000 in furniture alone, with hope chests to coat racks, were purchased illegally. Some were manufactured on township grounds by an employee whose job duties included such work.

"What you have here is a reverse burglary," Strickland said.

Former investigator David Ostertag said the investigation began with a tip from a co-worker about use of an Office Max charge card.

"Frank Thomas assured us before he died there was only a couple of thousand of dollars worth of items missing and he would pay restitution. He was only off by about 50 times," Strickland said.

Warren Township officials may consider using an insurance policy and pursue civil litigation against John Thomas.

Thomas, age 24, of Waukegan, is the former highway department employee sentenced to 30 months probation, restitution and community service, for his role in a highway department scandal.

Pageant applications available

Lindenhurst—Applications for the Little Miss Lindenhurst, Junior Miss Lindenhurst and Miss Lindenhurst pageants are now available at Lindenhurst Village Hall and the Park District.

The pageant will be Thursday, August 13 at 6 p.m. on the village hall grounds.

Candidates will be expected to represent the village in pageant events at the 1999 Lake County Fair. Miss and Junior Miss winners of the county fair pageant will be expected to represent the Lake County Fair and compete at the Illinois County Fair Pageant in Springfield, Illinois in January, 2000.

Further information is available from Village Hall at 356-8252.

Two die, one injured in collision

Fox Lake—Two people are dead and another injured when the Red Mercury two door automobile they were driving crossed over the center lane on Wilmot Road and slammed head on into a semitruck.

According to police reports, the driver Margaret Kwas, 53, and passenger Doris Topps, 74, were killed in the accident. Also, a 3-year-old boy was riding in the backseat of the automobile. He was transported Flight for Life to Milwaukee Children's Hospital where he remains in serious condition.

"It seems it was just an unfortunate circumstance," Police Chief Ed Gerretsen stated about the accident. "Crash investigators are currently investigating the accident and we should know more at a later date."

Deep tunnel gets cautious reception

There's something intriguing about a deep tunnel. The depth? The darkness? The sheer challenge burrowing below the earth's surface? That's why the idea of constructing a tunnel between Wadsworth and Gurnee to carry flood waters from the DesPlaines River to Lake Michigan undoubtedly will be debated for a long time, certainly long enough to be imbedded in the community conscience. The idea for the tunnel originated with the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources. Not so surprisingly, a price tag already has been hung on the 6.6 mile project: $52.3 million.

The deep tunnel project caught Lake County officialdom off guard. Typically, the reaction has been "guarded optimism." Only State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) spoke positively, professing support while attaching strings that the tunnel proposal has to be "logical, decent and helpful." Geo is not known to equivocate when the public good is at stake. Illinois DNR will host a June 16 confab to lend some legitimacy to the project. Among agencies expected are the "usual suspects"—U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and the federal EPA.

There's no purpose at this point of getting into all the technicalities of the mammoth public works project except to ask, if the deep tunnel to control DesPlaines flooding is coming, can a deep tunnel to harness the Fox River and save the Chain O' Lakes be far behind?

A further observation: Frankly, we like the idea. At least the godzilla public works proposition would be underground, out-of-sight, which is not the case of the much maligned, and rightfully so, tollway extension of Rte. 53.

Waukegan: get some ideas at the library

Pardon us for being the proverbial wet blanket as we take this blessed opportunity to champion the citizens group behind the restoration of the Carnegie Library in Waukegan. The bucket of cold water here must go in the face of the city fathers/mothers of Lake County's largest city.

To read the chronology behind the decline of the Waukegan Carnegie Library makes us see it as an icon for the city's government over the past 30 years. One, the library building closes down when the community builds a new library in the 1960s. Two, it remains abandoned and reaches such a state of disrepair that the city council actually allocates money to have the building destroyed in the early 1990s. Three, it is not government that creates a use for the building and a plan to get the cart headed in that direction, but rather a group of impassioned citizens, the Carnegie Preservation Project, that can't bear to see a historical treasure dilapidate into oblivion.

Thank goodness the zealous group had the energy to block the city council on the grounds that they were failing to maintain the public trust for the benefit of the community, the grounds by which the building and the land had been donated to the community. Obviously, public trust in a loose term.

Back to the icon part. Look at downtown Waukegan. Look at the lakefront. It is an area that should be premium real estate. It is not. In fact, just about the only thriving enterprise in the downtown area is a quasi-government entity—College of Lake County. Thriving because it is quasi and not just plain government. By plain government we mean that "not maintaining the public trust for the benefit of the community" kind of government.

Ironically, it is partly because of other bodies of government that particularly the downtown area is not doing well. Those bodies are the county and federal government. The city of Waukegan is using the presence of hundreds of government employees as a crutch.

When the next retail store closes down how many times will people say "I'm glad at least the County buildings are still down here."

Examine that statement for a moment. What do the county buildings actually do for Waukegan except prevent the city council from being forced to create some solid economic policies that will encourage private investment and growth that truly helps the city? Downtown Waukegan does not resemble a mini Michigan Ave. after the whistle blows a 5 p.m. each day. Kind of makes the words 'public trust' sound like a misnomer of monolithic proportion, doesn't it?

If the county and federal governments were to move to a central location in Lake County to properly serve their citizenry, Waukegan would at first be adversely affected. However, in the long run, the city council might very well make its first concerted effort in decades to improve its plight through the means it already has.

If they need any ideas, we know of a citizen's group that may be able to lend some advice.

Special columnists provide distinct flavor

VIEWPOINT

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

With Pioneer Press pushing outward from its North Shore base and Copley Newspapers testing the waters of community journalism in Lake County with editions in Gurnee and the Libertyville-Mundelein-Vernon Hills area, the fires of competition for followers of the printed word have been turned up another notch.

Might be a stretch to describe the tussling as a "newspaper war." Save that for late night film fare on cable. But battlelines are being drawn.

Front line combatants will be Lakeland Newspapers' able and award winning staff of news professionals. Call them the editorial equivalents of the 101st and 82nd airborne, armed and trained for immediate deployment wherever local news in Lake County is being generated.

They are backed up by neighborhood news contributors and, in this writer's humble opinion and self exclusion, the most talented team of bylined special interest columnists employed by any suburban weekly newspaper. Believe me, the readers of this newspaper are being served by exceptional columnists.

A baker's dozen of writers provide Lakeland readers with insight and information every week on a variety of special topics. This array of talent soon will be expanded to a baker's dozen plus one with the debut of a column on the Internet edited by Carlos Barragan of Netdirect, headquartered in Grayslake, who will conduct readers on a weekly exploration of cyberspace.

The bulk of our special interest byliners are Lake County residents. They know what makes our main streets tick. Exceptions are Don Taylor, a national business writer, who happens to be familiar with our area through frequent consultations with Lake County retailers and a seminar at College of Lake County, and golf immortal Jack Nicklaus.

We like the matchup between our special interest byliners and what the competition sends into the fray.

Garden writer Lydia Huff is an expert on gardening in Lake County because, well, this is where she gardens. John Matijevich has more than a quarter of century of experience in public office to put into his columns on public issues. Sherri Singer provides matchless input on parenting. Nancy Sakol knows the ins and outs of the Lake County employment scene and writes about it every week. Dr. Dave Trask reports on the county's four-footed population, answering timely pet care questions with precision.

On the lighter side, Jerry Pfarr's comments on life in Lake County help us realize what a great place we have chosen to live; Donna Abear's self-effacing humor never fails to produce laughs and good cheer. Gloria Davis, film, and Tom Witom, theater, offer reviews of unusual quality. Travel writer Jim Warnken has an uncanny eye for where to go and what to enjoy when you hit the highway for vacation enjoyment.

While not a columnist, Tom Beck produces political cartoons from his Mundelein studio the measure of nationally syndicated cartoonists. Only Tom selects topics that interest our readers most—issues that pertain to them and their pocketbook.

Sure, this observer pleads guilty to being biased about the blue ribbon panel of columnists who support our full-time staff. They provide a distinctive flavor to the news menu, setting this newspaper apart from the pack.

Look at it this way. Local Lakeland's special interest byline writers are the bonus you get when choosing us as your source for local news—real local news. No apologies, thank you.

Eliminating straight-party voting

When a Cook County Circuit Court Judge recently ruled that the law to abolish straight-party voting was constitutionally sound, statewide Republican candidates were said to be "dancing in the streets." After all, the law was approved when the GOP dominated both houses of the legislature during the 1995-97 session, and the bill was signed by Gov. Jim Edgar.

Cook County Clerk David Orr led the challenge to the law and he was joined by the Illinois State Council of Senior Citizens. Their contention was that the law will interfere with the citizen's right to vote and that passage of the law was too partisan.

Judge Francis Booth upheld the law and he happens to be a Democrat, he maintained that just because the law was on the books since 1891 doesn't mean that it should be interpreted as a citizen's fundamental right. After all, he said, three-fifths of the states do not have straight-party voting. He also shrugged off the "too partisan" charge, saying that politics is often a practical reality of the democratic process.

County Clerk Orr believes that particularly in Cook County the length of time that it will take to vote with the elimination of straight-ticket voting will cause voters to walk away from crowded lines. The long list of judicial candidates there makes it troubling. Of course, if the law is upheld, clerks will have to adjust, as will voters. The changes can be addressed with more voter booths, but Orr claims the price will be overly burdensome to the taxpayers.

As a long-time Democrat, I guess that I should rail against the judge's decision. NO WAY. As a long time sufferer of the Republican controlled politics in Lake County, my fingers are not crossed waiting for a court reversal. As I write this, Orr has just announced that he will appeal the ruling.

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

Yes, the Republicans passed the law as a reaction to Democrats when they successfully sued the "Punch 10" strategy in Cook County to push the entire ticket. Just because it worked before doesn't mean it will work all of the time.

The statewide Republicans may have rejoiced over the ruling, but I haven't heard about much celebrating on a local level. For years, Democrats running for county office were at least 30,000 votes behind their rivals after the straight-party ballots were counted. Imagine what Grace Mary Stern, Linda Hess, and Mary Ellen Vanderverter had to overcome to bring victory to Democrats in Lake County. It's a steep hill to climb.

For Democrats, it would be a refreshing change for candidates to be able to run on a level political playing field in Lake County. I have every confidence the voters will be able to make wise decisions and make up their own minds who the more qualified candidates are. It is a fact, too, that voters more and more are judging candidates based on what they stand for, what their positions are on the issues, and other factors. There are significant policy differences between the political parties, blurred as that may become, but voters can take that into account, too, when they make their candidate selections.

So, before either political party rejoices or frets over the ruling to eliminate straight-party voting, as the old saying goes, "it ain't over until the fat lady sings." First of all, we must wait for the court's final decision. And then, no matter what, it's never over until all of the votes are counted.

One thing is certain. The elimination of straight-ticket voting will mean that the candidates will have to earn their victories. Now, isn't that nice?

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

What is the going price for loyalty?

Libertyville Township Supervisor R.T. "Mike" Graham unveiled the final version of his revised open space plan last week.

The plan, written by Lane Kendig, was presented in a bound copy with a nice plastic cover.

Evidently, copies of the presentation weren't cheap.

When asked by current county board member and one of the founders of the township open space district in 1986 Carol Calabresa, if she could have a copy, Graham said copies were available to anyone at a cost of $16.

Someone asked how much the copy would be for a county board member, to which Graham replied $16.

"How about for a founding member of the open space district?" asked Calabresa.

Graham just smiled.

Getting personal

Kendig, as it turned out, stepped on a few toes at the meeting by saying the forest preserve district could solve the recreational needs of the county by giving every township 50 acres of open land.

Kendig uttered the above comment after a resident asked why he was so insistent in attempting to buy the county farm property along Winchester Rd., when the taxpayers have already paid for it once.

Calabresa, who serves as treasurer of the forest preserve, was incensed at Kendig's notion, saying the county is not responsible for meeting the recreational needs of individual villages.

No special rate.

Vanderventer:

Pulling together

The people of Round Lake can really pull together when a community effort is needed. The Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWLACO) gave in to resident pressures and passed a resolution giving 60 days for the facility to pick a new location.

"I have always felt that this community is supportive of children's needs," said Linda Molitor, District 116 School Board President. "When asked to do something for the children, they respond."

A bad deal

It seems phone solicitors have been giving Lake County residents a startle when calling to offer home buyers refinancing options. Solicitors have been telling residents a high interest lien has been placed on their home.

Lake County Recorder of Deeds Mary Ellen Vanderventer says consumers with questions should contact the Recorder's office for verification.

State law requires the Recorder's office to make any recorded document available to the public. The companies are using the recorded information to recruit for their business.

"I don't think anyone should be needlessly alarmed by these advertisements which reference by office," Vanderventer said. The office will put consumers at ease with a simple phone call.

That's customer service.

Holiday reprieve

The date of the consolidated election has been changed to April 13, 1999 from April 6, 1999 due to the celebration of Passover.

The movement also changes the deadline for filing candidate petitions to Feb. 1, 1999.

Goldwater should have been president

My old friend Bruce, when proven right in an argument, liked to say, "I hate to be an old I-told-you-so, but I told you so."

That's how I feel about the long-ago, 1964 presidential election when American voters, in all of their knee-jerk predictability, elected Democrat Lyndon Johnson by a landslide over Republican Barry Goldwater, 43 million votes to 27 million.

Former Arizona Sen. Goldwater, who died last week at 89, obviously was more presidential than Johnson. Anyone who hadn't been living in a cave should have realized that.

Just last weekend, in praise of Goldwater, our Democrat president Bill Clinton called him "a great patriot and a truly fine human being."

Another Democrat, the highly respected, retired Illinois Sen. Paul Simon, echoed Clinton: "Barry Goldwater was just a great human being."

Others eulogized him as a man of dignity, courage and humility. And if a huge majority of the 1964 voters hadn't been a flock of rubber-stamp sheep, Goldwater might have been — as he should have been — our president.

And how is Lyndon Johnson being assessed 34 years later? In a new book about LBJ by Robert Dallek, "Flawed Giant," he is remembered for his vulgar manners, his perverted sense of humor, his paranoia and his bragging about extramarital affairs.

Dallek particularly denounces Johnson for sending hundreds of thousands of American soldiers to continue to fight in Vietnam in a war he knew we couldn't win. Johnson refused to stop the slaughter because, "I will not be the first American president to lose a war."

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

That election night in November of 1964 remains all too fresh in my memory. I was working for a morning newspaper and my closest friends arrived at the office that evening celebrating the fact they all had voted for Johnson and gloating with glee at the thumping Goldwater was taking.

I was the only one in our close-knit gang of reporters and editors who had voted for Goldwater and they were rubbing salt in my wounds. I couldn't fathom the scene because I had thought those people were real smart.

Well, I hate to be an old I-told-you-so, but ...

In Goldwater's autobiography, written 10 years ago, he had this to say:

"Johnson was the epitome of the unprincipled politician, a dirty fighter and treacherous. He'd slap you on the back today and stab you in the back tomorrow."

I wonder how many of those who so eagerly embraced Johnson as president realize now they were oh-so wrong.

I don't suppose many, because they and a newer flock of voters who don't think virtue matters, who don't demand that the president of the United States be a great human being, more recently preferred Bill Clinton to George Bush and Bob Dole.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

As usual, Leo said it better than anyone

Highland Park recently lost a wonderful friend and neighbor and the State of Illinois lost a great stateswoman. Grace Mary Stern stood for the best that politics has to offer, exemplifying the ideal of public service and community-building through passionate beliefs, spirited debate and plain old hard work. Whether they shared her philosophies or not, people couldn't help but admire Grace Mary. Her ethics were unwavering, her spirit indomitable even in the final months of her terrible illness. And she always had a twinkle in her eye. She felt her causes keenly and believed that one person really could make a difference in the world.

I had the privilege to serve with Grace Mary in the Illinois General Assembly from 1992-94. We first became acquainted in 1981 as I began a Washington internship for then, Illinois Senator, Alan Dixon, and I later worked as a part time aide in her district office where my respect for her continued to grow. Personally, I learned a great deal from Grace Mary as friend, mentor and wise lady. As a politician with uncompromising values and a gift for discourse, she set the tone and high standards for those of us who would enter the public service arena later and against which we would measure ourselves and our accomplishments. Grace Mary saw herself as a Democrat but decried the partisan posturing that is legend in Illinois politics. She exemplified the ideals of the Democratic Party as the party of humanitarian ideals and principles. She knew that winning wasn't everything, though she was always willing to fight the good fight.

Grace Mary Stern broke down barriers. She didn't like being told she couldn't do things. When the Republicans said no Democrat could win the seats she was running for, they were waving a red flag in front of a strong-minded woman. Her nickname was "Leo" and she was a lioness. She was told she couldn't win, so she did.

"Leo" always maintained a strong sense of humor. She could poke fun at herself as well as her colleagues. "Not one of the boys" was her motto, but she could mix it up with the best of them. She was legendary in her satirical song-writing and performing, and many of her compositions were aimed at getting people to see the humor in their lives. She particularly liked to pan politics which provided endless grist for her irreverent musings.

Though Grace Mary Stern even made us laugh at her funeral (as she would have wanted) because of the wonderful stories her friends and family members shared, when the bagpipes played "Amazing Grace," there was barely a dry eye among the hundreds of mourners. Truly she was amazing.

Grace Mary's own words from her Memorial Service say it best: "for heaven's sake let's make it an occasion for rejoicing that I had so many good things in my life, so many unexpected satisfactions and triumphs—!" As usual, Leo said it better than anyone.

A window on Springfield

A major step towards better government took place in the closing hours of the Spring legislative session. By a vote of 118-0, the Illinois House passed SB1674—a bill containing language necessary to provide citizen access to the Illinois Legislative Information System via the Internet. The Legislative Information System contains details about each and every bill going through Springfield. In addition to the name, number, sponsor(s), and content of each bill, the system also shows any modifications and/or amendments as well as how each legislator votes on a given piece of legislation. Legislative calendars, journals, committee reports, research papers and other legislative documentation are also available through the system.

The 67 organizations in our statewide Impact Alliance-IL Network, along with David Starrett from the Advocacy Group and several other non-alliance members, worked in concert to get this legislation passed. Sponsored in the House by Rep. Judy Biggart (R-81), the bill had four Joint Sponsors (Reps. Lauren Beth Gash, Andrea Moore, Sara Feigenholtz, and Jeffrey Schoenberg) as well as 35 co-sponsors. The legislation provides for the gradual availability of this data beginning in January, 1999.

The Impact Voters of America congratulates all grassroots organizations throughout the state for their involvement and hard work in getting his measure passed. The thousands of letters, faxes, and phone calls generated in favor of this legislation was an eye opener in Springfield. The Impact Alliance-IL Network, with a combined membership of over 500,000, sent a clarion call that citizens intend to get a better grasp on legislative activities. And even though surveys show the general public doesn't get involved because they are already overwhelmed with work and family commitments, studies have also shown they will respond favorably if a brief, clear, "Executive" type of analysis is prepared for them by an independent source. The Impact Alliance-IL Network, composed of organizations from all political spectrums, hopes to fill this void by presenting such an analysis.

A special thanks goes to Peggy Haggerty and other members of the Government Accountability Information Network (GAIN) for the extensive research which was instrumental in getting the job done, and to Rep. Lauren Beth Gash for shepherding this bill through the entire process, including those last minute "glitches." Although the 67 organizations in the Impact Alliance-IL Network and others deserve to be proud of their accomplishment, it may have never occurred without the foundation laid by GAIN and Lauren's behind the scenes hard work.

Time for a change

It's only the tip of the iceberg, but our Auditor General gave us an insight last week into how corrupt and mismanaged this state really is. Illinois pays $34.03 a ton versus $24.29 a ton of asphalt road surface for our sister state of Wisconsin. Illinois taxpayers are paying 30 percent more for their road asphalt than an average of six other Midwestern states.

Of course, the people who brought you this blatant waste, the thousands of state contractors who have grown fat under 22 years of uninterrupted Republican governors, are going to pour millions into the coffers of the George Ryan campaign. Good old George is going to turn around and use these millions to demonize his opponent, Glenn Poshard. You'll be told how "bad" Glenn is on taxes, how his union buddies are going to spend us into oblivion, how great the Republican governors have been for our state's economy, blah, blah, blah—

The truth is Republican Governors gave us four big tax hikes in the last 30 years and George Ryan supported them all (George even said he might raise the gas tax next year). Illinois' economic growth has lagged badly behind other states (like Tennessee, Texas and Nevada) that haven't raised taxes. The Illinois Republican party is so in love with tax and waste, Illinois is probably the only state in the nation where the Democrats in the State Assembly have a better record on tax hikes than the Republicans.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

A quick look into my crystal ball

Someone once described the future as that period of time when our businesses are very profitable, our family relationships secure and our happiness guaranteed. In reality, most of us find the future pretty much the same as the past. We meet it because we must, but we make few changes today that will redirect our tomorrows.

In the business world, there are many who claim we can predict the future. There are those who propose that the best way to predict the future is to understand the past. Others suggest that it is futile to examine the past to predict the future. They say we must study the present and project the current situation into tomorrow.

There is another group that thinks little of the future. This is the Albert Einstein School. Just pay no attention to the future and it will come soon enough.

I line up between the first two schools. There is value in understanding the past, but I also believe in evaluating present trends to predict future results.

A few good guesses

I've been out on the limb before. In 1989—four years before we wrote "Up Against the Wal-Marts"—I predicted that Wal-Mart would become the largest retailer in the U.S. At the time, Wal-Mart was only 60 percent the size of the largest retailer, Sears, Roebuck and Company.

In 1992, I predicted that Best Buy Co., Inc., the electronics, appliance and computer store chain would overtake the industry leader (Circuit City) within five years. It happened in four. When I made that prediction Best Buy was one-third as large as Circuit City.

In 1993, when Wal-Mart's sales were in the mid $50 billion range, I predicted the company would hit the $100 billion mark by the year 2000. Fiscal year 1997 brought more than $104 billion and sales jumped 12 percent to nearly $118 billion in 1998.

In 1994, I predicted that Home Depot, the Atlanta-based home-improvement chain, would be the first U.S. retailer to reach $20 billion in sales within 20 years of opening their first store. In early 1998 (its 20th year) Home Depot's sales reached $24 billion.

A few good misses

I've missed a few along the way as well. In 1993, I predicted the continuing decline and possible demise of Sears, Roebuck and Company. The chain was struggling, closing stores and cutting jobs. It was a good bet. However, new leadership turned the company around by focusing on customer needs, smaller neighborhood stores, an upgraded image and improved training and service. Sears is recovering nicely.

Then in 1995, I predicted a merger between Kmart and Target (the Dayton Hudson Company). Kmart was struggling, but had some great locations. Target had a better retail concept and image—it seemed a natural union. It hasn't happened.

Residential properties on the auction block

Rick Levin & Associates, Inc., a Chicago-based real estate auction marketing firm, announced it will conduct two auctions in June. The first auction is a multiple-property auction including single-family homes and townhomes in Fox Lake. The auction will take place at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 20, 1998 at the Sheraton Gateway Suites located at 6501 N. Mannheim Road in Rosemont, Illinois.

The United States Bankruptcy Court is directing the second June auction of a partially-completed single-family home in Lake Forest. The auction will take place on Tuesday, June 23, 1998, at the First Bank of Highland Park located at 1835 First Street in Highland Park, Illinois.

"The owners of these properties have decided to offer them via auction to eliminate the time and expense associated with a conventional marketing program," said Rick

Levin, president of Rick Levin & Associates, Inc. "They may then pass the savings along to the bidders at the auctions. The owners of these properties have also shown their great motivation to sell by offering many of the properties absolute, regardless of price."

Properties in the June 20, 1998 auction include:

- Developer Closeout of Three Brand New Single-Family Homes Located at Hickory Cove on Grass Lake, Fox Lake, Illinois - Located in the wooded surroundings of Northwest Lake County, these homes have up to 2,112 sq. ft., 3, 4 or 5 bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths and feature first floor family room, 2-car garage and optional private harbor slips on Grass Lake. Originally priced from $179,000 to $196,000, these spacious homes have suggested opening bids of $75,000. One of the homes will be sold absolute, regardless of price. Open houses are scheduled from 1-

3 p.m. on Sundays, June 7 and 14; and from 6-8 p.m. on Thursday, June 18.

- Four Waterfront Townhomes Located at the Leisure Point Resort subdivision in Fox Lake, Illinois - These newly constructed townhomes have approximately 1,700 sq. ft., three bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths, vaulted ceilings, balcony in master suite, fireplace, oak trim, skylights, screened porch, 2-car garage and concrete dock. Originally priced from $220,000 to $245,000, these lovely townhomes have suggested opening bids of $100,000. One of the townhomes will be sold absolute, regardless of price. Open houses are scheduled from 1-3 p.m. on Sundays, June 7 and 14; and from 6-8 p.m. on Thursday, June 18.

- Auctioned on June 23 will be a house located at Lot 44 Kathryn Lane in Lake Forest. This newly constructed, partially completed two-story brick home features approximately 7,100 sq. ft., 4 bedrooms, 5 baths, wonderful porch, 1.45-acre lot and much more. The home has a suggested opening bid of $600,000 and will be sold without reserve, subject to approval of the United States Bankruptcy Court.

Open houses are scheduled from 1-3 p.m. on Sundays, June 7, 14 and 21; and from 5-7 p.m. on Wednesdays June 10 and 17.

Other properties in the June 20th auction include townhomes in Tinley Park and a development site in Orland Park.

Complete Bidder's Information Packages are available at the scheduled open houses and on-site inspections. Excellent financing is available to qualified buyers on most properties. A cashier's check, as earnest money, is required to bid. ## Roth IRA, expanded IRA limits encourage investing "The federal government is giving consumers additional financial incentives to think seriously about saving for retirement," said Wendy Coyne, a first vice president at First Chicago NBD Investment Services, Inc., the brokerage division of First Chicago NBD Corporation. In a periodic feature called "Money Smarts," Coyne said consumers need to answer four questions:

1. Do they want to start (or add to) an individual retirement account?

2. Should it be a traditional IRA or a new Roth IRA?

3. Should contributions be invested in accounts insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., such as certificates of deposit, or in non-insured investments such as stocks, bonds and mutual funds?

4. When should contributions be made? Contributions can be made from Jan. 1 of the tax year through April 15 of the following year.

IRA or Not

"Consumers are wise to check out if 401(k) plans are available through their employers," Coyne said. "We encourage our clients to invest in a company 401(k) at least up to the amount the employer is matching."

For example, a client should invest six percent of their income in a 401(k) if the employer matched dollar-for-dollar the first three percent and 50 cents for every dollar for the next three percent, Coyne said.

"Many employees, however, do not have access to 401(k) plans or they want to invest more for retirement than their plan allows," Coyne said. "Both groups of employees should look very seriously at IRAs."

Traditional or Roth

Both IRAs allow customers to invest up to $2,000 per year. "The standard, tax-deductible IRA may be appealing to many because it reduces their taxable income, and thus their income tax, for the year," said Coyne.

Single taxpayers with income up to $35,000 and married taxpayers filing jointly with income up to $50,000 are eligible for a tax-deductible IRA in 1997. The limits rise to $40,000 and $60,000 in 1998. Those with higher incomes can open a non-deductible IRA that is funded with after-tax money.

While the goal is retirement savings, consumers younger than 59-1/2 can make a penalty free withdrawal from IRAs to pay qualified college expenses or to purchase a first home (lifetime cap at $10,000 for the person, spouse, child or grandchild).

Both deductible and non-deductible IRAs allow the earnings to accumulate without any taxes due until the money is withdrawn. At that time, it is taxed as ordinary income, no matter how it was invested.

Contributions to a Roth IRA do not reduce taxable income in the year of the contribution. However, the income earned will be tax-free if the account has been in place for at least five years and;

- the person is at least age 59-1/2 or,
- the money is used to buy a first home for the person, spouse, child or grandchild or pay qualified college expenses.

The money is also tax-free if a beneficiary receives it after the owner's death.

In addition, the income limits are dramatically higher for a Roth IRA: $95,000 for single taxpayers and $150,000 for married taxpayers. The contribution decreases with higher incomes and is not available for single taxpayers above $110,000 and couples above $160,000.

Anyone at any age who earns compensation is eligible for a Roth IRA, even retirees. Also, a Roth IRA never requires withdrawals, unlike the traditional IRA accounts.

The Roth IRA legislation also allows consumers to shift old IRAs. Individuals with 1998 income of less than $100,000 may transfer funds from their traditional IRA into a Roth account; however, they will be taxed on the earnings for their IRA as well as any contributions that had been tax deductible.

"To lessen the tax burden, all 1998 transfers from a traditional IRA account into a Roth will be allotted four years to include their regular IRA income into their tax return pro-rata," said Coyne.

Bank Accounts or Investments

Once a consumer has decided which kind of IRA to use, he or she must decide whether to invest in bank accounts such as certificates of deposit or stocks, bonds or mutual funds.

"Each choice has its strengths, so we suggest those interested in an IRA consult with their tax professional, accountant or financial advisor before making any decisions," said Coyne.

When to Invest

"Time is running out for 1997 IRA contributions because the deadline is April 15," Coyne said.

"But you can also get a jump on your 1998 contribution by acting quickly."

"The key to a financially secure retirement is to follow a disciplined and consistent plan. The sooner you invest, the more time your money has to work. And that applies both to the time of year of your investment and the time you have until retirement."

Bureau of Census to host forum

There's a new way of gathering Census information, and the public is invited to a meeting June 5 to learn more about it.

Lake County has been selected as one of 37 pilot sites for a new Census Bureau program titled the American Community Survey.

"This program is designed to provide local social, economic and housing profiles each year, instead of just once every 10 years," Lake County Chairman of the Board Robert L. Grever said. "Annual data will allow communities to better monitor changing conditions, make times decisions and plan for the future."

A public forum to discuss this new Census is set from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Friday, June 5 at the College of Lake County Auditorium, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake. The auditorium is located in the lower level of the main building, near the cafeteria. Use parking lots four, five or six. Use parking lot seven for handicapped spaces. The meeting has been arranged for community leaders and major organizations to discuss the new program. Participants will be introduced to the type of data that will be available, and hear how other community leaders plan to take advantage of this data. Attendees also will be asked to provide ideas about the local implementation of this program.

Opening remarks will be given by Grever, followed by a presentation about the American Community Survey from John Ambler of the Bureau of the Census, Office of Congressional Affairs. Next there will be a panel discussion facilitated by J. Barry Hokanson, Lake County planning and development director. Panelists will include: Wally Davis, Residential Planning Corporation; Chuck Bartels, Manpower of Lake County; Dr. Gretchen Naff, College of Lake County; Jerry Todd, People's Energy; Douglas Weber, United Way of Lake County; and Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton.

The panel discussion will be followed by a question and answer period. The meeting is open to the public at no charge, though space is limited. For more information, contact Lake County Principal Planner Dennis Sandquist at 625-2782.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

As a director of Personnel for a large corporation I tend to interview 30-40 persons per week. I am amazed by how many individuals will cuss, swear and use tainted language during the course of an interview. Please let your readers know that a slip of the tongue could cost you the deciding vote on whether or not a company will accept you for employment. Some corporations have a stringent hiring process. Our corporation, as do many, makes it a point to take notes during the interviewing process. You would be shocked at how many potential employees are turned away because of unsuitable, slang, or harsh language spoken in the interview. Perhaps printing this will help people realize they have been one of these individuals and enable them to curtail this the next time they interview for a position with any employer. Thanks for your informative column and for listening. J.E. - Deerfield

Dear J.E.:

Thank you for your input. It is no question that an individual while interviewing should be aware of his or her language. Yes, it is amazing how often a 4 or 5 letter word will slip out of someone's mouth and they are totally unaware of its impact on others as well as themselves. Strong and undesirable language does not belong in an interview no matter how comfortable you may be in that interview. Be on guard! There are reasons that the employer or employer's representative is taking notes. These reasons include pros, cons, desirable and undesirable factors. Before you open your mouth to speak...collect your thoughts and be sure that what is coming out of your mouth is what you intend for the employer to hear.

Dear Search:

I am one male in a department with three females who are into "male bashing". Each day I sit and listen to these women and I am sick of it! I have let them know how nasty they sound and how frustrating it is for me to have to sit and listen to this each day. Our boss is male and most likely unaware of what is going on. I would like it to stop! They read your column each week on break. Perhaps when they read this one, they will realize how rude and immature they are acting, and how hurtful some of the things are that they are saying even though they are not directed at me. sign me...Frustrated In Libertyville

Dear Frustrated:

I don't blame you for the way you feel. If you think you are frustrated...imagine how miserably frustrated these women are to have to carry on this way. They say that "misery loves company". Let them know how you feel and that you would appreciate them putting the "male bashing" to rest. If that does not work, try reminding them that it was a male who got them their jobs. Good luck.

Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030

Ask The Vet

Ask The Vet-Dr. David Trask is part of a group of northern Lake County veterinarians who pooled their money and expertise to start All Creatures Emergency Hospital in Grayslake providing emergency care to pets nights, weekends and holidays. During the day he can be reached at Lindenhurst Animal Hospital.

"SEE YOUR VET BEFORE YOU GET A PET!"

Do we spend more time selecting appliances for our home than we do selecting a pet for our family? It seems hard to believe, but most families spend more time considering the purchase of a new refrigerator than purchasing a new pet. The Chicago Veterinary Medical Association want to remind individuals and families to "See Your Vet Before You Get A Pet!"

Veterinarians and their staff are often in the best position to advise families about pet selection. Too often, however, the veterinarian sees the family after the pet is purchased or adopted. Humane Societies, responsible breeders and breed rescue groups do an effective job of screening prospective pet owners, but advice often comes from relatives, friends and pet shop personnel with limited experience. Dr. Sam Ristich, President of the Chicago Veterinary Medical Association states, "Animals are living creatures which require significant amounts of time, responsibility and caring". After the initial experience of owning a pet has worn off, people who have made a hasty or misinformed choice may find themselves with a pet whose size, personality or time requirements don't fit in with the family life style. These pets may find themselves given up for adoption or, worse yet, even set loose outside to fend for themselves. Large numbers of animals are euthanized simply because a family made an uninformed decision when selecting a pet and another home couldn't be found for it.

When choosing a pet a number of factors are important to consider including: life style, income, housing, age, and children. Depending on the variety of pet you choose, factors such as feeding, a clean place to live, grooming, exercise, training and regular veterinary care, can add up to a great deal of money. Most pets live a long time; dogs 10-15 years, cat 16-20 years and larger birds can out live their owners. Most pets purchased as a gift for children become the parent's responsibility.

The Chicago Veterinary Medical Association urges prospective pet owners to "See Your Vet Before You Get A Pet". Make this very important decision an informed decision.

A place for everyone

From the days of Scouting's first Chief Executive special needs Scouts have always had a role

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Parents who do not think there is a place in Boy Scouting for their children may wish to take another look at their perceptions.

Scouting itself took a look back in 1923 when they established a special award for Scouts with disabilities unable to meet certain program requirements.

It was easy for them to do. Their first Chief Executive Scout, Dr. James E. West, was disabled.

From the very beginning, the boy Scout experience has included Scouts with emotional, mental, and physical disabilities.

Parents in Lake County will find support for their child's interest in Boys Scouts at the district council level, and the troop and pack level in their neighborhood. Aside from the presence of special needs Scouts in the regular Scouting program, there are also literature resources. The Scout program itself is filled with options to assure that any and all Scouts will find positive rewards in working for their badges and gaining positive feelings about themselves.

"Boy Scouts of America has been really on the cutting edge of the recognition of the fact that special needs Scouting has a place in Scouting," said Ralph Rehbock, present chairman of the Special Needs Committee on Scouting. "I've been involved in this for 20 years or more."

All Lake County Scouts are in the Northeast Illinois Council of the Boy Scouts of America. The NIC district is located in Highland Park. The committee reports to the council.

"Every Council makes special needs Scouting available," said Rehbock about the national program. He said that there is a local 20-member committee of volunteers who implement the goals of the program in northeastern Illinois. The members themselves are involved individually in some of the programs.

The committee has substantial results to show for their commitment to special needs Scouting.

District Executive Katy Bonner said about 500 people are registered in their programs who have special needs. This is part of a total council membership of more than 13,400.

There are 355 Scouting units in the Northeast Illinois Council, according to Bonner. Of that number, 44 units are specifically designed for people with disabilities and have charters with local organizations. There are about six Scouting units that include both disabled and non-disabled Scouts.

"Lamb's Farm has a Scouting unit," said Rehbock. So do the Ann Kiley Center, Warren Special Recreation Association, Riverside Foundation, Glenkirk, Mundelein High School, Highwood ESDA and Zion Park District Special Recreation Association.

For most parents, however, it is the special needs Scouting option in their local pack or troop in their hometown that matters to them. According to Rehbock and Bonner, the Northeast Illinois Council program continues to expand and improve that aspect of the special needs program.

"It is becoming better known because we are getting visibility," Rehbock said. Committee members and staff have spoken to management groups within the council about special needs Scouts. There are high visibility events for special needs Scouts. There are Scouts in local programs. Committee mem-

Top, Grayslake residents Deborah Doherty, standing, and Deana Dawson enjoy Scouting with Boy Scout Troop 222 of Round Lake. bers talk about the program with agencies and organizations.

The committee Rehbock chairs is currently planning three special needs Scouting annual events. On Saturday, July 18 a Kiley Center outing is planned for residential program Scouts. It gives the Scouts a chance to meet with others and be outdoors. Rehbock said that Scouts really look forward to it.

A "Scouting on Parade" event at the Lake County Fairgrounds unfolds on Saturday, Oct. 10. There are thousands of children who participate in the activities, carnival games, and camping experiences. This event includes special needs Scouts.

Soon thereafter, Saturday, Oct. 24, special needs residential Scouts gather at the Steak Center in Buffalo Grove, Ill. for their dance.

"They just absolutely love to dance," said Rehbock. "It is a very popular event."

Committee member Charles

Jonaitis received an award in January as Assistant Scoutmaster of the Year. He is involved with a troop with special needs Scouts in it.

"It's working out well," he said. "We have about three very different special needs kids." He said that they make accommodations for the Scouts.

"You're trying to do the best for the kids," he said. "We try to make things reasonable to do."

On camping trips, the special needs Scouts do as much as they can. This is true for the National Scouting Jamboree as well. For example, a Scout with an amputated leg was able to attend. Other Scouts helped him get around.

"It wasn't a barrier for any of the kids," Jonaitis said.

Scout members of the troop take turns helping for short periods of time. "It's an established pattern. It doesn't seem to be a problem."

SCOUTS: Special needs welcome

Deana Dawson is a Council member for the Special Needs Committee. Also, her home Troop is 222 in Round Lake.

"Troop 222 has been around 50-plus years," she said. "We are sponsored by the Round Lake Men's Club." There are more than three dozen members.

The troop has one special needs Scout. "I believe this is not the first time we've had a special needs boy," she said. However, it is her belief that the troop is much better prepared to make it a good, strong, positive experience for him than in the past. She attributes that to the work of the committee.

The committee provides insights to leaders. "We go in and give ideas," she said. Many times it is only necessary to make little changes to be inclusive. Rarely do big accommodations need to be made.

Joe Serocki, of Fox Lake, is leader of Pack 79. It is a 20-member pack, about medium sized. He has a special needs Scout in his unit and more will be joining from the local school district. He has been working with the Special Education District of Lake County, SEDOL, at their Big Hollow School site.

Did the special needs children ever think about joining a pack or troop? "It was never even considered," he said. "They didn't even realize it existed," he said of Scouting's special needs program.

"It's worked out real well," he said of the experience.

Serocki said, "They fit right in. There's been no transitional period." As a result, the new Scouts find friends. They do things with people now who would never have approached them before. Membership in the troop has served as an ice-breaker.

There is even an impact on the parents, according to Serocki.

Originally, parents may be reluctant to allow their child to participate because of their concern about their child's impact on the Scout program. Parents sometimes do not want to generate resentment because of changes to accommodate their child.

The parents of the special needs Scout in his pack have been a positive experience for pack leader Serocki. "They are incredibly supportive," he said. Part of it may be that their son is gaining communication skills that he was not obtaining in the SEDOL program. Social skills can also improve.

How does the Scout himself like it? "He loves it," said Serocki. "He loves being involved with it. He's participated in every activity." The activities include visiting the museum and overnight camp-outs at the Great Lakes Naval Base.

"The benefit for these kids is just incredible," he said. Serocki also sees a benefit for the other Scouts in the pack.

"They are realizing that there are kids out there with differences," he said. "They're able to see that not everyone is the same."

"I really want this program to get out there and start working," Serocki said.

Russ Fierce is the Assistant Council Commissioner for Special Needs Scouting. In January, he was named the Committee Member of the Year.

"I've been a member of the boy Scouting organization for 40 years," he said. He has a son in Post 17 of the Boy Scouts. "My second son has been involved in Troop 1 at the Methodist Church in Park Ridge," Fierce said.

He identified a number of activities with which he knows Kiley Center special needs Scouts have been involved. "We go on outings, to baseball games, to the Zion Nuclear Center."

Fierce said that the troop picks up debris along the road. Their segment of the Adopt-A-Highway Program is along Route 41 north of Wadsworth. The troop participates in the Zion Labor Day Parade and the Fourth of July Parade. The troop regularly has a Halloween party at Taylor Farm on Wadsworth Road.

"They're going to jamboree in the Lake County Forest Preserve in October," he said. "We're going to have a local one."

Bonner says that she receives telephone calls from interested parents. "How can I get them involved?" parents ask her. "We want more calls to come in," Bonner said.

Parents who want to include their children in these Scouting programs can contact District Executive Katy P. Bonner at the Northeast Illinois Council, 433-1969, ext. 623. "I can team them up with local boy Scout units," she said.

"We always make sure that the parents stay involved," she said. "The Scouts need to have someone who can share the experience with them. Also, the parents need to help guide the Scout leaders. The program is a mutual exchange."

For many parents, special needs Scouting can be a pleasant surprise. It is not a surprise for Boy Scouts of America.

"There are always kids with special needs in Scouting," Jonatis said. "It's just that no one makes a big deal out of it."

Classic comedy series, James Bond Festival set at Gurnee Cinema

Three classic comedies and three James Bond films will be featured at Marcus Cinema at Gurnee Mills during two weeklong festivals beginning June 12.

"Our comedy festival starts on June 12 and features 'A Night at the Opera,' 'The Women,' and 'It Happened One Night,' said Daniel Chapp, festival coordinator for Gurnee Cinema.

"'A Night at the Opera' was the most popular Marx Brothers film," Chapp said. "It stars Groucho, Chico and Harpo Marx who disrupt the stuffy opera world when they wreak havoc on the opera stage," Chapp said.

"The Women' stars Joan Crawford and Norma Shearer as spoiled, rich women who gossip and obsess over men," said Chapp.

"The third film, 'It Happened One Night,' won the Academy Award for Best Picture in 1934," Chapp said. "Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert won best acting honors and Director Frank Capra won the Oscar for Best Director for this comedy," Chapp said.

The Classic Comedy festival begins June 12-13 with screenings of "A Night at the Opera" at 12:45, 3, 5:15, 7:30 and 9:45 p.m. Following on June 14-15 will be "The Women" at 1, 4, 7, and 9:45 p.m. The festival's finale on June 16-17 is "It Happened One Night," at 12:45, 3, 5:15, 7:30 and 9:45 p.m.

The James Bond Festival begins on June 19. "Our James Bond film festival features 'Dr. No,' 'From Russia With Love,' and 'Goldfinger,'" said Chapp.

"'Dr. No' stars Sean Connery in the first film in the very popular James Bond series," Chapp said. "From Russia With Love" is the second James Bond film ever made. The third film, "Goldfinger," pits James Bond against Goldfinger, one of his most popular enemies," Chapp said.

The James Bond festival begins

June 19-20 with screenings of "Dr. No." Following on June 21-22 will be "From Russia With Love." The film festival ends on June 23-24-25 with "Goldfinger." Showtimes for all films are at noon, 2:30, 5, 7:30 and 10 p.m.

"Gurnee Cinema is very proud to present these films on the big screen as they were meant to be seen. With plush seating, state-of-the-art sound and projection and all of the comforts today's moviegoers demand, there is no better way to see these classic films," Chapp said.

A special advance Hollywood Comedies ticket good for all three films is now on sale at Gurnee Cinema for $10. A special advance James Bond festival ticket is also on sale for $10. Tickets for individual features are also available.

The cinema is also sponsoring a Blood Drive on June 13. For more information on either the festivals or the blood drive, call the theater-box office at 855-9945.

STAGE REVIEW

'Phantom' haunts Chicago's Opera

The story of the Phantom of the Opera has withstood the test of time, several movies, and more than one stage musical. A high caliber touring company of Andrew Lloyd Weber's hit opera is presently playing in Chicago, most fittingly at our own Civic Opera House.

This is an opulent production with lavish sets, complete with golden angels, a crashing smashing crystal chandelier, and grandiose costumes, especially in the New Years' masquerade scene.

Just as rich and luxurious as ever is Weber's musical score, one of his best, featuring show stoppers like "Music in the Night," the erie and magnificent title song, the melodious "All I Ask of You" and with Fathers' Day on the horizon, the poignant "Wishing You Were Somehow Here Again."

Though he is missing the dramatic expertise, especially the expressive hands of Michael Crawford, the original and most famous Phantom, this masked man, Ron Bohmer, is more than capable in both the musical and acting departments.

This week's Christine, the Phantom's love or victim depending on how one looks at it, is played by Marie Danvers. Danvers comes to this production with wide experience at playing this particular operatic ingenue. Her beauty of face and voice stands her in good stead as she makes the part hers.

Other standouts include Jason Pebworth who plays Raoul with finesse, and Patricia Hurd, whose prima donna Carlotta is not only fair of voice but fairly funny to boot.

Olga Talyn's Madam Giry, part of the original Broadway cast, steals a scene here and there, and Ian Jon Bour as Monsieur Andre, Chip Huddelston, a replacement Firmin the night we were there, and Patrick Jones as Ubaldo Piangi, complete a fine lead cast.

"Phantom" veteran director Harold Prince, with 11 such productions under his belt, conductor Roger Cantrell and his superb orchestra, plus Dana Kenn and Sam Fleming, perpetrators of the superb sets and costumes in that order, and Jason Kantowitz, whose lighting is the secret of the play's aura of suspense and fear, all help to make this version of the romantic and mysterious "Phantom," chock full of musical and dramatic glory.

All well worth seeing for the first time or, if you "collect" "Phantom's," for the second or tenth time, during its short return to Chicago during the month of June.—By Gloria Davis

HOROSCOPE

Aries — March 21/April 20

The beginning of the week brings new challenges, Aries, but don't fret. You are more than able to handle them successfully. Your efforts are sure to impress those around you. That special someone does something to aggravate you. Don't stay mad at him or her for too long; he or she meant well. Virgo plays a key role.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Don't be too persistent when it comes to a financial investment, Taurus. Your aggressiveness could cause the others involved to pull out of the deal. Be patient. A close friend tells you something that you don't want to hear. Listen to him or her anyway; you could learn something very important.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

A disagreement with a business associate puts you in a bad mood early in the week. The best thing to do is to forget about it. The argument is minor and you have more important things to do. An acquaintance introduces you to an intriguing person. Just be yourself, and you're sure to impress him or her.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

A family problem has you feeling down this week, Cancer. While it is difficult, don't let this affect your professional life. The higher-ups are counting on you to make progress. Turn to a close friend when you need to talk. He or she always has understood you, and this time won't be any different. Libra plays a role.

Leo — July 23/August 23

It's smooth sailing for you this week. Everything is going well in your professional life and in your personal life. A bonus is coming your way at work, and that special someone finally responds to your advances. Enjoy yourself, and take advantage of all the opportunities that you get this week.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't take things too seriously early in the week, Virgo. You have a lot going on right now, and you can't get upset over every little detail. Tackle your major tasks; the less important things will work themselves out soon enough. Scorpio plays a significant role on Wednesday.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

Take the high road when it comes to an overzealous business associate later in the week. You know how valuable you are — and so do your superiors. A loved one has a proposition for you. Hear him or her out before making a decision. Look at all the pros and cons, and you'll see that this is a great opportunity.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

Stand your ground when a loved one tries to get you involved in a family argument. Don't get in the middle of things. Instead, try to get everyone to talk it out. If you don't make the effort, there won't be family harmony for a while. A close friend turns to you in a time of need. Be supportive.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

While you don't want to hurt a close friend's feelings early in the week, you're going to have to be blunt with him or her. Skirting the issue only will make the situation worse. A loved one has a surprise for you. Enjoy yourself, but don't go overboard. Aquarius plays a key role late in the week.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

Keep your mind on the tasks at hand during the middle of the week, Capricorn. You have several things to do and you can't put them off. Don't let friends distract you. That special someone lets you know how much he or she appreciates you. Show that you don't take him or her for granted either.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't get too upset with a loved one who has been keeping something from you. Before you start to yell, find out his or her motive. It will make things perfectly clear to you. A friend needs your help with a family problem. While you want to help, don't. He or she really has to take care of this alone.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

Don't let an acquaintance's harsh words ruin your week, Pisces. He or she is just letting off steam. The sooner you realize this, the sooner you'll be able to concentrate on the things you have to do. An old friend asks for a favor. Say yes. He or she always has been there for you in the past.

THEATRE

'The Miser'

"The Miser," a comedy by Moliere adapted and directed by Timothy Mooney of Lake Villa, runs through June 28, and is presented by the Stage Two Theatre Company. This is a new adaptation of Moliere's hilarious classic comedy about love and money. The play tells the story of the outrageous miser, who insists that his daughter, Elise (in love with Valere), marry a rich older man. At the same time, Harpagon chooses a rich widow for his son, Cleante, while choosing for himself the young women with whom Cleante is in love. Ultimately, the miser must choose between the woman he desires and a money box that he has lost.

Stage Two will be performing this show outdoors, at the Cuneo Museum at 1350 N. Milwaukee Ave. (Route 21) in Vernon Hills, set against an authentic-looking 17th Century backdrop. Performances begin at 7 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays, to make the most of natural, outdoor lighting. Sunday matinees begin at noon and 3 p.m. Tickets are $15 for the general public, $12 for students and seniors and $10 for groups of eight or more.

Lambs Farm hosts Father's Day fun on the water, ski show

Come see some of the country's most talented, most daring show ski teams, hailing from such midwest towns such as Twin Lakes, Wis., Elkhorn, Wis., and Rockford, when they make their annual appearance at Lambs Farm on Father's Day, Sunday, June 21 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the 33rd Annual Water Ski Show & Tournament.

Skiers will thrill the crowds as they attempt to capture the coveted Lambs Farm crown. This tournament is sanctioned by the American Water Ski Association (AWSA). Admission and parking are free.

Four-tier human pyramids that involve up to 25 skiers all behind one powerful towboat, teams of twelve or more barefooting behind a single boat, and multiple jumpers simultaneously performing dangerous acrobatic maneuvers off a 5-1/2 foot jump ramp are just some of the thrilling performances. But the skiers aren't the only stuntmen in this business; the towboat drivers gets the crowd's adrenaline

"We're looking forward to a great tournament this year," said tournament director Dr. Ron Svoboda.

An awards presentation will follow the tournament and on-the-water entertainment will continue while the judges tabulate the scores.

No picnic baskets or coolers will be permitted. All concession sales benefit the vocational, residential and social program of Lambs Farm, which serves adults with mental disabilities.

Downtown Las Vegas Wait Until You See Her Now!

by JIM WARNKEN,

President, North Star Travel, Inc.

To be honest, I'm not much of a gambler. Still, I've got to get to Las Vegas at least once a year, just to see what spectacular new attractions the casinos have come up with in their never-ending attempt to outdo each other.

For those not familiar with Las Vegas, the casinos are pretty much located in two main areas, Las Vegas Blvd. better known as "The Strip" and on Fremont Street in "downtown" Las Vegas.

Up until now, the real glitz has belonged to the casinos on the strip. There you'll find the Mirage with its active volcano, Treasure Island with its battling pirate ships and the Luxor with its laser light show. But in true fashion of "one-upmanship", the downtown casinos have come up with the "Fremont Street Experience!"

First, they put the almost half-mile long stretch of Fremont Street, where the casinos are located, under a 90 foot high canopy.

Oh, but this is Las Vegas. We can't stop there.

Though billed as the "world's largest sign", it's much more than that.

It's actually a giant TV screen complete with the world's most powerful sound system and controlled by a band of computers that rivals anything the Military has!

1.9 million lights that make up the canopy may sound impressive. But, it's even more amazing to learn that each of the nearly 2 million bulbs is organized into groups of four to form a "pixel". Each pixel contains a red, blue, green and white bulb controlled by computers, that can adjust the 16 levels of brightness at over 30 times a second creating over 64,000 different shades of color. Video images are displayed with the resolution of a big screen television and move along the entire length of the sign.

These computers, which take 31 hours to load just to present a six minute show, also control the 540,000 watt sound system and 208 speakers, allowing the sound to move down the sign with the pictures.

While I'd still recommend staying at a hotel on the strip, make sure you at least visit downtown Vegas for the Fremont Street Experience.

MOVIE REVIEW

'Hope Floats' is a hopeless date flick

The ever bubbling Sandra Bullock is in need of a good movie after last year's stinker, "Speed 2." Despite the title of producer and star in her latest film undertaking, "Hope Floats," Bullock is still in need of a good flick if she is to keep her super star status.

"Hope" floats hopelessly and helplessly along with a bar of soap—opera that is, as Bullock, a dumped wife and mother, returns home with her daughter.

When last seen, she was the popular cheerleader in love with the school's top jock, Michael Pare, one of the silver screen's best looking, worst actors.

What an ingenious plot! Wonder why it's only been done a zillion or more times!

This is where the movie becomes a "How To" instruction on serving corn extraordinaire that out-suds the best TV soaps.

Back home, she meets a new romantic interest in Harry Connick, Jr., an old school chum, who is a likable and passable actor, but we prefer him behind a piano, in a white dinner jacket, vocalizing a 1942 tune in that inimitable style that's made him famous.

Gina Rowlands does a good job as Bullock's mother, the fading southern belle. Rosanna Arquette is the snip nosed other woman who is just classy enough to tell Bullock that Pare loves her now, demanding that she let him go, all on a trash TV talk show. Kathy Najimy hosts this TV trash compactor. The video of "Hope Floats" should go straight to the Lifetime cable channel, the women's channel.

We're giving this disappointing PG-13 rated movie two out of a possible five stars.—By Gloria Davis

Sandra Bullock and Gina Rowlands star in "Hope Floats," a film that, unfortunately, doesn't break Bullock's streak of bad flicks.

Bloom building

Leiders nursery has grown to become a fixture in the Grayslake community

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

Leider's Garden Greenery has been building blooms for more than 25 years. Steve and Marti Leider set up their business with the help of Steve's parents, Marion and Rich Leider, in 1973. The family first opened their greenhouse, and the retail business followed in 1974.

The job has its benefits.

"First of all, it's real rewarding. You get to see things grow and see how your acts affect the growth of plants," Steve said.

He has formulated a planting schedule through trial and error, and keeping a good diary of previous year's experiences.

Fibrous Begonias take the longest to sow. They are sown in January, and not ready for sale until mid May. Tomato plants are the more quickly produced plants. He sows them April 1, every year, and six weeks later they're ready for the sales floor.

Steve's family has a long line of green thumbs. Rich was the youngest of 12 children, raised in Evanston. Their father operated a greenhouse, growing vegetables and selling them at the produce market, in Chicago.

Rich went into the growing business, but focused on cut flowers for many years. He had a partnership for a while known as Al-Rich Gardens, in Arlington Heights, and later ran a greenhouse in Libertyville, where Jamaican Gardens is now located.

Rich was active in the Grayslake business, working every morning, until he became ill a year ago, and had to go into a nursing home.

When the Leider's first bought the eight acres of property their business rests on, Grayslake was a different town.

"There was absolutely nothing here. I remember my husband bringing me here and showing me the property. The only thing around was a J&L Gas station on Shorewood, and the Green Mill, where the Lake Street tavern is," recalled Marti.

Although she grew up in Mundelein, Grayslake was so far removed, she said on her first visit she thought they were in the middle of nowhere. Back then the only time people came through town, she recalled, was if they

Weeds, weeds and more weeds

With the warmth of June, the gardens are ready to take off on a growth spurt. This is the time of year when everything seems to be coming up. Especially the weeds. The weeds are always ready to take over. For your garden to really look great, you need to be constantly weeding. Yes, weeding is gardening. It's not all fun, you know. While plants are still young, you can not slack off on this task. The weeds can choke out your seedlings, and rob them of nutrients and needed water.

There are ways to get around this task—that is once the plants are established. While working around young plants, though, I find it very useful to use a long handled hoe. It saves your back, and is easy to use. Just cultivate along rows, and leave the weeds upturned to burn out in the sun.

GARDEN JOURNAL

One way I discourage weed take over, is by mulching. Once it has thoroughly warmed and the plants are off to a good start, mulch, I mulch rather heavily, using both organic mulch and non-organic materials. Between my vegetables I use dried grass, leaves from trees and shrubs that I have (or my husband) have pruned, pine needles, etc. I also use newspaper piled two to three inches thick for a very good mulch, no weeds get through this.

For paths in-between rows in my big vegetable garden, I use old roofing shingles. They serve the purpose very well, making moveable paths, and the weeds burn up underneath them.

There are many different decorative organic mulches to use around your flower beds. Cocoa shells, decorative bark, cedar mulch are among these. Just remember always to mulch heavily. Good old black plastic works real well for ridding your garden of weeds. I find it a bother to use, though. I really prefer organic mulches that will break down into the soil, and make it healthier.

There are commercial herbicides available that will kill weeds, but as you are aware, I do not like to use poison anywhere in my gardens. There is a product called Preen, that can be used around ornamentals and I know my mom used to use it in her flower beds, and it kept weeds away. I don't know how safe it is though.

Whatever methods you choose, be thorough about them. Don't let the weeds get the best of you. Think of it as a stress buster, or better yet a good healthy release of your anger. Tear out those weeds with a vengeance. Better take it out on the weeds, and not the kids. Go to it, there's weeding to be done.

Until next week, peace.

What is life without curtains?

By Lillian Bender

What is life, indeed, without curtains? penned Henry James in "The Europeans." Consider the significance of that question? Why would curtains matter so much? Curtains at a window are softness, movement, color, texture, drama — all of this, and more. They are light filtering, light directing, or light blocking, while, simultaneously, decorating our view of the world, and its view of us. Curtains and light are a partnership, bringing mood and feeling through our windows, and into our rooms. And they inevitably bring happiness and richness into our lives, albeit sometimes in subtle, inadvertent ways.

In her very first advertisement for curtains — ruffled ones made of natural cotton muslin — Jane Fitzpatrick, the founder of Country Curtains, wrote, "Through them comes a soft, diffused light which enriches the mellow beauty of your furniture." Can you imagine the sensation, maybe on a cool, sunny day, of amber light gently washing into your room through drawn curtains, and leaving you feeling warm and cozy inside? What a delicious effect!

That's a great example of what curtains do for us, granting us contentment within a room. They are certainly mood makers in other ways, too. The right curtains can make a room feminine or masculine, adult or juvenile, formal or casual; they can make it traditional, colonial, country or contemporary. Such is the power of curtains. They are the material of transformation, at the window, and in the room.

Fortunately, you don't need a decorating degree, or lots of extra money, to enjoy the benefits of curtains. They provide the most wonderful opportunity for each of us to personalize a room and to enjoy the additional satisfaction of having done it ourselves. The myriad of curtain choices is easily discovered in catalogs or shops. They're relatively inexpensive to buy, compared, say, to new furniture, or wallpaper, or paint. And they're very easy to hang. Anyone can do it and enjoy it!

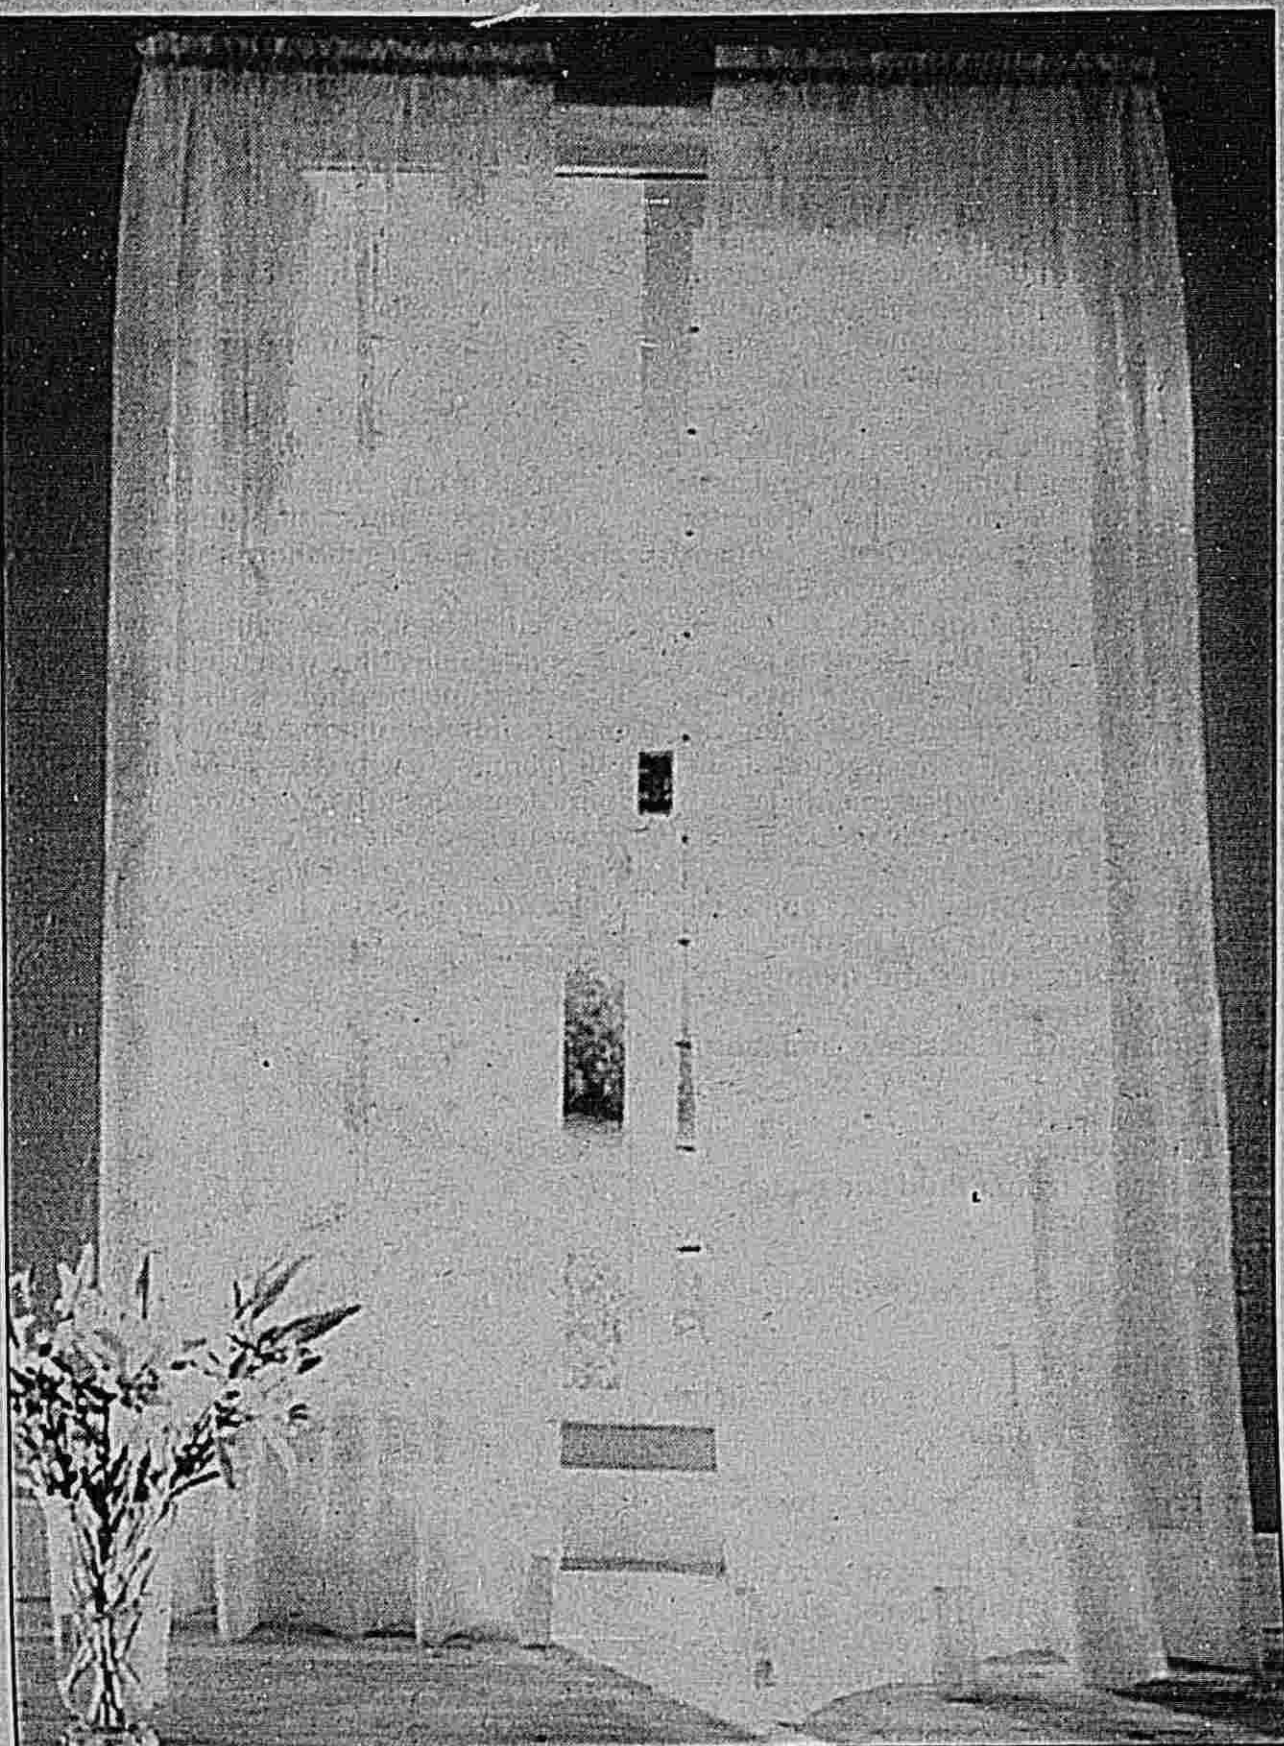

As a practical matter, then, how does one approach the question of curtains? First, confidently and in the affirmative... of course, yes, I will have curtains! Secondly, by considering which of the mood or decorating theme options is appealing to you, or appropriate for the style of your room. Thirdly, by searching for just the right curtain for the person, the windows and the room — a sheer or lace for lots of filtered light, and femininity; a pink print or gingham for a little girl; a plaid or a stripe for a big boy; velvet or damask for formality; ruffles or tabs for casualness. Look through home magazines and catalogs for ideas; visit your local curtain shop. All of this is much easier and a lot more fun than you may imagine, and it's especially fun if you do it with your mother, your daughter, your sister or your friend.

So, back to our initial inquiry — what, then, is life without curtains? It's less fun, more bland, flatter, duller, and less interesting. It has less color and texture, more harshness, and rougher edges. We urge that you not give in to those prospects, and that, in fact, you do your part to counter them. Live the good, enriched, civil, joyful life... have curtains!

Summer life is a picnic!

Eating on the go has become a way of life for Americans, but summer offers a special opportunity to take your meals on the road. With a little pre-season planning, picnics can provide a delicious, spontaneous getaway from your kitchen all summer long.

Whether you're off to your child's soccer game, the community playground or an outdoor concert at the local amphitheater, you can relax and enjoy both the event and the meal, by taking your lunch, dinner — or even breakfast — along.

It's easy if you take a moment now to gather picnic supplies in one location. Once organized, you can grab what you need anytime you have the urge to eat outdoors. Here's a checklist of essentials:

- Tablecloth and/or blanket
- Ice chest and bag of ice
- Hot/cold thermal beverage container
- Paper plates, cups and napkins
- Plastic forks, knives and spoons
- Serving utensils
- Sharp knife, corkscrew and bottle opener
- Cutting board
- Garbage bags
- Charcoal, lighter fluid and matches
- Portable grill
- Wet wipes
- Sunscreen and insect repellent
- First-aid kit
- Flashlight
- Umbrella (just in case you get caught in a summer downpour)
- Radio

A storage container or basket for transporting these items

Picnics can be as simple or extravagant as you wish, but you can piece a meal together in an instant if you keep your refrigerator and pantry stocked with the following foods:

- Fresh fruits and vegetables
- Vegetable dips
- Deli meats and cold cuts
- Cheese

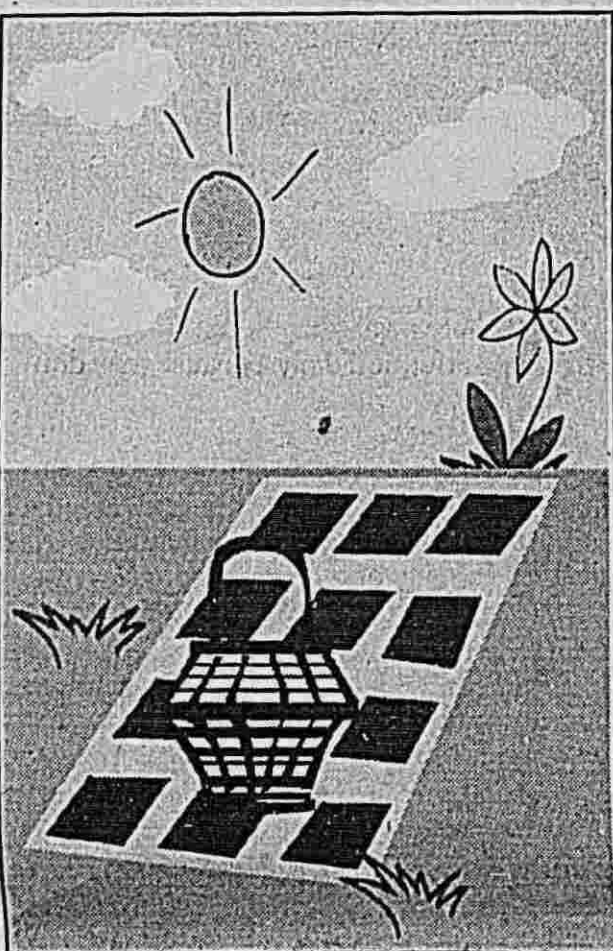

crackers
Fresh breads and buns
Brats, chicken, hamburger patties
Prepared salads
Condiments (ketchup, mustard, relish, mayonnaise)

Wine, beer, juice, bottled water and pop

Snack items (chips, pretzels, cookies)
Of course, a quick stop at the local fried chicken stand or sub shop is always an option, too.

Picnicking is an easy, inexpensive way to spend quality time with friends and family and escape the phone interruptions and responsibilities of home — even for a couple of hours. So why wait? Make this a summer of outdoor fun and adventure by taking your meals on the road!

Don't let allergies stop garden enjoyment

If allergy anxieties have kept you from bringing the beautiful bounty of your flower garden indoors, you may be relieved to learn that garden flowers are rarely the cause of allergies, according to Sean McCarthy of Research Products Corporation, the maker of Space-Gard High Efficiency Air Cleaners.

But be careful about adding weeds, grasses or blossoming tree branches to your floral arrangements, McCarthy said. They are much more likely to cause sneezing and other allergy symptoms.

Plants with brightly colored, fragrant flowers are less likely to cause allergies because they have large pollens with a waxy, sticky coating that are primarily carried by insects, not the wind, according to the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology. The pollen of weeds, grasses and trees is much smaller and is more likely to get into your eyes and nose where it can trigger allergies.

If you love flowers, but hate allergies, there are a number of things you can do to help keep your home pollen-free, McCarthy said.

Stick to large bright flowers for your bouquets; avoid decorative touches like flowering branches, and dried weeds and grasses.

Keep your windows closed to keep pollen out. Use an air conditioner to help you stay comfortable.

Install a whole house air cleaner to clean the air that circulates through your home's heating and cooling system. A media air cleaner removes up to 99 percent of pollen, and unlike electronic models, it doesn't produce ozone, which can aggravate breathing problems.

Never bring flowers with mold or fungus indoors.

Leave your gardening shoes outside to keep grass pollens out of your indoor air.

For more information about how a high efficiency air cleaner can help you keep pollen and other irritants out of your indoor air, call the Consumer Information Department of Research Products Corporation at 1-800-545-2219. Ask for the free booklet Air Cleaners for Allergy Relief. For more tips, see the Research Products page on the Internet at www.Space-Gard.com. # Glorious grilling - tasty tips for great summer meals

Grilling reaches its zenith during the long, lusty days of summer. And for good reason. There is no simpler way to embrace the warmth and good-natured flow of the season than by gathering with friends and family for a flavorful outdoor feast.

Whether it's steak seared to perfection or chicken and shrimp kabobs cooked to succulent tenderness, the art of grilling can make — or break — your meal. Here are some tips to see you through from start to finish.

Preparing the grill

Clean your grate with a wire grill brush, loosening particles of food from past use. For a more thorough cleaning, spray with oven cleaner or wash with soapy water, and rinse thoroughly. Before grilling, apply vegetable oil to the grate or coat it with a non-stick cooking spray, and open any vents on the bottom of your grill.

Lighting your fire

Arrange your briquettes in a pyramid shape and cover evenly with approximately two ounces of lighter fluid. Light carefully and let the coals heat until they are covered with a light gray ash. When the coals are ready, spread them into a single layer and preheat your cooking grate by placing it four to six inches above the heat source.

Preparing and grilling your food

Trim excess fat from your meats to prevent sudden flare-ups. To ensure more even cooking, bring foods to room temperature before placing them on the grill.

To sear — a fast, high-temperature cooking method that seals in natural juices — leave the grill uncovered. A covered grill will impart a smokier flavor to the food.

If convenience is an issue try packet cooking, a grilling method that allows you to steam foods quickly over high heat and keep clean up to a minimum. Simply place your seasoned meat and/or vegetables on a square of heavy-duty aluminum foil, and, leaving room for heat circulation inside, bring the sides and ends up and double fold.

An ideal way to customize individual meals, packet dishes are easy to prepare in advance and transport to another grilling location.

Finally, you'll want to invest in the right tools. A pair of tongs and a spatula are indispensable, and a grilling basket is great for cooking fish and vegetables.

Now you're ready to don your apron and let the grilling begin!

Proper preparation will pay off in tasty grilled meals during the summer months.

BLOOM: Family keeps yards in bloom

were on their way to Wisconsin.

Even so, they succeeded from the start.

"The first spring we opened I was surprised at the business we had," said Marti. When asked why she thought it was so, she answered "At the time there weren't many garden centers. You really had to go to Wheeling and Des Plaines. We probably drew from a bigger area than we do now."

The Leiders have a total of 1,500 square feet of covered growing space, according to Steve. They are open year round, offering seasonal plants, house plants, and a retail shop with everything from fertilizer, to pots and garden accessories. Just about everything they sell is grown on site.

A typical day in the life of Steve may be a little difficult to describe.

"It's different every day, that's another reason I like it. I'm watering in the morning, and in the afternoon planting, and sowing seeds, and doing book work," he said.

Steve has two full time managers helping him out. Gerald Zdanowicz and Erik Bryant. According to Steve they both put in around 60 hours a week.

A business with long hours and plants that need attention daily, because they don't understand the meaning of "weekend," is starting to impact Steve.

Will he stay in the business much longer?

"I'm 50, I'm getting too old," he said. "It's strenuous, it's long hours. It's approaching the time for me to do something else, probably in the same field. Either a smaller business or working for someone else."

Although Steve and Marti have three children, only their oldest is near the age of taking over and they don't think she's interested. Steve said he's not sure about his two sons and doesn't want to pressure them. They have to make their own choice, es, he believes.

With the spring planting season arriving soon, he has a little advice for customers itching to get in their gardens and dig into the dirt.

"Wait until the weather warms up. Even though it's nice and warm today it won't stay warm. Wait until May 10. I also suggest they buy their plants from me," he said with a chuckle. "We're more expensive, but it's a better product."

Steve said they purchase expensive seed, of a high quality, which produces well performing plants.

Fun, sun & caution

The following tips can go a long way to ensuring summer safety

Summer is a time for fun and sun, but without some caution, it could be a time of discomfort and even danger. A few simple tips can go far for summer safety:

WATER SAFETY: The national Safe Kids Campaign in Washington, D.C. has released statistics that reveal children can drown in seconds, even in small quantities of water in buckets, bathtubs or wading pools. Of all pre-schoolers who drown, 70 percent are in the care of one or both parents at the time—and 75 percent are missing from sight for five minutes or less! Two-thirds of all drownings happen between May and August, and 40 percent occur on weekends. This is a signal to watch small children at all times. Maintain safeguards and barriers, particularly, fencing around pools and hot tubs. Check safety wear, such as inflatable items. Are you sure they are reliable?

In other statistics, it was noted that drowning is a major cause of accidental death for children under 14 years old. Take all safety precautions.

SUNBURN: Our skin suffers the ravages of the sun's harmful rays no matter what our skin color is, and/or how we think our tolerance is to the sun. It's important to minimize exposure and to be well-protected. If you are tolerant of PABA, you are in luck. PABA is an ingredient in many sun-blocks, but you can take it internally before exposure, to keep from burning. PABA is readily available in health food stores, as it is one of the B vitamins. The suggested dose is two tablets, three times a day before planned exposure, and then take at least four more on that day. You can keep taking PABA, but cut down on frequency and quantity. Although this is general information on PABA and readily available, you might want to consult your physician before using.

Many sun lotions and blocks contain fats and oils. It's best to avoid these. Health food stores have products that are good for the skin, and can help prevent severe damage when the sun is shining. And don't forget about children! Baby's feet need protection, too!

Wear a hat to protect yourself from the sun.

And if you are burned? The Chinese use cooled black tea, applied to the skin. There are beneficial chemical compounds at work. Aloe vera gel takes the heat out of the burn and is a natural antibiotic. Drink plenty of fluids, because sunburn dehydrates the body. If the case is serious, you might want to take colloidal silver topically to prevent infection. Also, Coenzyme Q 10 increases oxygen to the cells, enabling healing to accelerate. If your eyelids are burned, grated apple applied to the eyelids give immediate relief.

In the case of heat-stroke, before professional help arrives, you could give the person some cayenne pepper to counteract shock. Iace some cayenne in a glass or on a spoon, with some water, and place it under the person's tongue.

BITES and STINGS: Did you know that you can build up a resistance to mosquito bites by taking the vitamin B1? Check at your health food store for a good brand. It has been suggested that taking it twice a day is a good dosage. Avoid DEET. It is a chemical that passes through the skin and into the bloodstream. It's been banned in many areas. Check labels!

Some of the many herbs that work well as repellents are: Pennyroyal, Mountain Mint (don't use either of these if you are pregnant), Basil, Lemon Thyme, and Citronella. Sometimes you can just use the leaves of the plant to rub onto your skin. Any citrus essential oils work well. Place a couple of drops of the concentrate into another oil base, and massage into the skin.

If you are familiar with homeopathic remedies, you know that the basis of homeopathy is "like works with like." So in the case of stings and bites, you will be taking small doses of the same irritant, in order to be healed. For bee stings and mosquito bites, it is suggested to use Ledum, Apis (most commonly requested), Hypericum, and Caribolicum acidum. The latter remedy is used for severe allergic reactions to bee stings, taking a dose as often as every 30 minutes. It is said that Staphisagria 12, if given ahead of time, can keep mosquitoes away. Wasp stings respond to Arnica tincture, applied topically. Supposedly, it heals the sting at once. Check out your local health food store for up to date remedies that are safe and easy to use.

As a pain relief for insect bites and stings, ice packs and meat tenderizer are the most commonly suggested remedies. Make a paste of the tenderizer, or just sprinkle it right on the area.

If you are stung by a bee, remove the stinger, if possible, using a knife blade or fingernail to flick it out. Do not use tweezers. It could squeeze more venom into the wound. Then apply ice, followed by the meat tenderizer paste.

Herbs that quicken healing and bring relief are: Garlic, Onions, Calendula, and fresh plantain. Calendula can be purchased in lotion form, and can be applied for swelling and pain. Garlic and Onions can be used both internally and externally. It's best, if you are in pain, to make a poultice of these herbs and apply directly to the area.

Simple prevention tips can be followed, so summer fun isn't interrupted:

- Use mosquito netting over an infant's crib or stroller.
- Place a heavy blanket or mat on the ground before you sit down.
- Don't go barefoot in the grass.
- Wear long sleeves and long pants when going through wooded areas.
- Avoid shiny jewelry and bright colored clothing.
- Avoid wearing fragrances, hairspray, or scented soap when outdoors.

- When your car is parked, keep the windows closed.

- Bees do not sting when unprompted. Don't swat at them!

If you have an allergy to stings and bites, you can be in serious danger. If you have any of these symptoms, get medical help immediately: severe itching; weakness, hives or hivelike rash, coughing and wheezing, swelling and redness around the site or around the lips, eyes and tongue; sweating; abdominal cramps, nausea and vomiting, difficulty breathing and possible collapse.

ANTS, CHIGGERS, MOSQUITO BITES: Wash thoroughly with baking soda and water.

SPIDER BITES: Detoxify the organs and blood to get it out of your system. You can apply colloidal silver topically to prevent infection. Sesame Street's Big Bird shows his friends how to properly and safely buckle up in the car. When out of the car and enjoying summer weather, there are lots of other safety precautions we all can take. This summer, make safety your emphasis along with fun in the sun!

There's a reason they call them 'dog days'

Summer is here. Which means that any day now, the weatherman will be uttering those three little words that strike fear into the hearts of flabby, middle-aged, weight-challenged moms like me everywhere: HOT AND HUMID.

The reason these words are so scary is that, as soon as the hot weather settles in, it becomes increasingly difficult to wear clothes that adequately disguise the fact that we have never once used that expensive exercise equipment we begged Santa for this past Christmas.

Although personally, I consider my Health-Rider to be an "objet d'art" - a metal sculpture, if you will, upon which you can hang brightly colored pieces of clothing to match or accent your room color scheme. (Note: Most men find this concept confusing, and you may have to repeat to them several times that hanging yesterday's underwear on your "sculpture" does not make an artistic statement.)

LIFE'S A BEAR

Another reason those words are scary is because, for some inexplicable reason, that "Dr. McDonald's Extra Value Meal Diet" our kids are constantly recommending just doesn't seem to be taking the weight off. Even when you eat a carrot afterward.

But the biggest reason those words are scary is because, sooner or later, once temperatures begin to regularly hit 80 and above, your local postal worker will get that sadistic gleam in her eyes, which means that she has just dropped the following invitation in your mailbox:

YOU ARE INVITED TO A POOL PARTY. BRING YOUR SUIT!

Of course, we could just stop our mail for the summer, but creditors tend to get a little angry when they receive payment three months late. And we can always come up with creative reasons for not wearing a suit at the party (i.e., "The dog ate it"), but sooner or later, we're probably going to have to grin and bare it.

This leads to the inevitably futile search for "the perfect bathing suit". Which is why, a few weeks ago, I got really excited when they advertised on one of the talk shows that they'd be doing a swimsuit fashion show, highlighting the "perfect" suits for various figure problems. I thought I'd watch the show and get a jump on things this year.

Imagine my disappointment when the models came prancing out, and it was immediately obvious to me that they all shared the same figure "problem": they were so thin that the last time one of them stood near a window fan, she ended up in Oz.

So much for that show. All it did was make me wish that just once I'd get to see a swimsuit model with a flabby middle, cellulite-ridden thighs, upper arms that do not bring the word "toned" to mind and, most importantly, stretch marks.

But I guess if I have to be realistic, no bathing suit on earth can hide what nature, childbirth and a few too many Ho Ho's have given us.

So if we can't find the time or will-power to flog ourselves into shape before the next pool party, perhaps an attitude adjustment is all we really need.

Like men, for instance. They have the right attitude about their bodies. I know very few men who will even think twice about whipping off their shirt in the summer heat, even if they're exposing a white belly so impressively round it makes you want to cry, "Thar' she blows!"

Then there's my daughter, chubby belly and all, who wiggles seductively around the house as though she is the hottest looking thing to hit a lime green Tinkerbell bikini since Cindy Crawford was in diapers.

Well, if men and small children can do it, it can't be all that difficult. So c'mon, ladies! Where there's a will, there's a way. When that invitation appears in your mailbox, take a deep breath and just repeat after me:

"The dog ate it!"

Child is on medication for ADD, but still seeing problems

Dear Dr. Singer, In the past I've seen you write a few columns on ADD and also on Cognitive Problems in kid's learning. My question involves a little of both. I wondered if these problems can exist and affect a child's learning simultaneously?

My child has been diagnosed with ADD and has been on Ritalin for a while. While I've seen changes with the Ritalin, I still see areas that are a bit off or a bit slow and I wondered if there might be more going on here than we thought previously?

Do you work with kids in your PACE Program who are on Ritalin? If so, what types of problems do you tend to see. Also, what do you think about medication for ADD?

Thank you, D.F.

Dear D.F.,

The answer to whether these two problems can co-exist is a great big yes! Most of the time kids with learning, emotional and/or behavior problems have multiple level issues that need to be looked at. Many times, one problem gets looked at and the child and thus the other areas of weakness don't get dealt with leaving real areas and ultimately more struggle for the child. Yes, my program has helped with this and I have seen many kids in my program who have already been diagnosed with ADD and are on Ritalin or other medications.

Certainly if your child has ADD and is not treated for it, treatments and activities that require attention will most certainly be unsuccessful.

Let's start by talking about ADD. For those of you who are not into the letters, ADD is Attention Deficit Disorder and refers to a condition that involves a group of symptoms including distractibility, impulsiveness, lack of focus, etc. (Highly recommend that if you're unsure and want to know more that you read on the topic first-I would be glad to refer you to authors.) Before I talk about the way I view this, you need to know that there are a lot of schools of thought on ADD and how it should be treated.

My opinion of it is that ADD is a medical and biological condition. While I do believe that it has been highly over diagnosed by the layperson and has almost become a trend diagnosis, I also believe that there are a percentage of kids in the population who do have the disorder.

PARENT'S PLACE

I find it interesting that we've almost come to a point in our society in which the mere mention of the disorder or of medical treatment of it is met with revulsion in many cases. It's almost as if it's been too talked about. Being that it is a medical disorder, it is important to note that, in my opinion, it should be investigated by a Medical Doctor.

Now, that does not mean that it should only be investigated by an M.D. ADD is something that, if it exists in a child, it exists in most or all activities. It is not selective for one class in school or another. It is not something that can be talked away. If it is truly ADD, it will be pervasive, across most situations and difficult to manage. For this reason, information is needed by teachers, parents, and other professionals.

A Psychological evaluation is always a good way to get more information on this. A diagnosis should be made by using all of the information available and not just bits and pieces.

On the other hand, cognitive processing problems are not about biological or medical problems. They are learned and can be improved with practice and training. Cognitive processing problems can certainly be affected by ADD.

For example, if you cannot attend to something at all (ADD part) you will certainly have difficulty interpreting and remembering what you see and hear or handling multiple pieces of sensory information (cognitive processing part). Now, where the two meet is here: Once the ADD is treated and the attending is better, the child may still not have strategies for the interpreting and remembering part, because there have been none learned up until that point.

You see, cognitive skills, in my opinion, are learned and therefore can be improved. A good analogy would be this: if you were in need of glasses but never had them, you would probably first be having a hard time seeing. Let's say you get glasses at age 8. You can now see, but visual strategy and visual memory may be very difficult and overwhelming since you came to the party late. That is where PACE comes in. So, you can see that even after the medical or biological part is taken care of, there are still areas in need of help. You may ask...won't a child eventually naturally catch up once those glasses are worn?

The answer is probably yes, but the critical issue in my mind and the reason cognitive training is important is the speed with which that catching up occurs. If it takes 8 months in a natural way vs. 2 1/2 months with training, obviously the shorter one is going to benefit the child better.

Let's take this glasses thing one step farther. Let's again say that you've needed glasses. As happens all the time, it was just not noticed until you were 8 and it caused some emotional issues. Let's just use a true story I know of. A child I know was called a "liar" by the teacher when he said he couldn't see the board from the front of the classroom. His eyes had been checked and nothing could be found. It wasn't until much later that it was discovered that he had a retinal deterioration and in fact, could not see the board. He was 10 when they discovered this! Probably some anger there I would guess! This would be a situation in which the emotional level would also need to be looked at or counseling should be a part of it in addition to visual treatment and cognitive treatment.

So, you see that usually, a problem a child is experiencing is multi-level. You need to find out which level is the bottom most (or root), treat it and work your way up until each level is taken care of thoroughly.

You also asked if I work with kids on Ritalin and what PACE works with in reference to kids with ADD. Yes, I do routinely work with kids on Ritalin. I look for processing problems that can exist beneath the academic problems and cause the academic problems to never get any better. Things like: memory (long and short term); How a child perceives and interprets the things he or she sees and/or hears; How fast the child can absorb and learn something; How well the child can handle several things at the same time.

In addition to helping to greatly improve memory, auditory and visual processing and processing speed, PACE also helps kids to do something called multi-tasking. This involves helping kids develop the ability to do and think about 2, 3 or 4 things at the same time and handle all of them successfully. This is a skill that is indispensable for the classroom. After all, a child in a classroom has to listen, read, and possibly write at the same time and be able to keep track of all of it. Many times, even after Ritalin, this skill is difficult because it hasn't been practiced.

As far as what I think about medication, I believe that if it's necessary, it should be evaluated by an MD and should be followed up on. I am not an MD and will not comment on the effectiveness of Ritalin and other ADD drugs. I will say, though, that if medication is recommended and indicated by an MD, not following through on that could be severely limiting a child's progress.

The best way for you to know if something more is going on with your child relative to processing, is to bring him or her in to be screened by me. The screening is short and will give you a clear picture of whether there is more going on. Call for info on that. If you would like more information on this program and what it deals with, either call me or email me with preferably a fax number that I can send to or an address. Good luck!

Ribbons and lace: European-style wedding cakes dress up bridal table

If you're planning a wedding or know someone who is, you're aware how much couples can spend for their "special day." So, it's no surprise people are conscious of the value of their wedding dollar, and brides' expectations of what they receive for their money have increased.

'Wrapped' in ribbons and bows, everything on this rolled fondant wedding cake is edible.

The modern bride is leaning more towards innovation than tradition, with a desire to make every aspect of her wedding a reflection of the couple's own distinctive style. This has fueled an increased specialization in the wedding service industry. The wedding cake is no stranger to this growing trend and has evolved into a major stamp of a bride's individuality. Brides are demanding that the last thing their guests taste is a reflection of theirs.

Cake decorators have kept up with this trend by borrowing from European pastry techniques. This has allowed them to offer their customers more flexibility in designing their perfect cake. These new techniques have also given decorators more tools to reflect the theme of the bride's wedding.

The most popular tool borrowed from Europe has been rolled fondant. Originally used in England as an edible covering for fruit cakes to maintain their freshness, rolled fondant is appealing because of its flexibility. Its clay-like texture allows decorators to sculpt, mold, and shape it to create designs which were impossible using the more traditional butter cream icing.

"Many of my cakes are inspired by some detail of the bride's gown," says Robin Martin owner of Gateaux in Minneapolis, Minn. "I feel that anything a dress-maker can do with fabric, I can do with rolled fondant." Martin, who specializes in rolled fondant cakes says that 90 percent of her customers come to her specifically for this type of decoration.

"Brides' tastes are becoming more sophisticated and the trend is leading towards simpler, more elegant lines with fresh flower or fruit decoration."

A recent Gateaux cake designed specifically for a spring wedding was adorned with cameos hand molded with white chocolate. Atop the cake sits a handkerchief Martin hand modeled with rolled fondant. At a recent wedding show, prospective customers thought the handkerchief was real and couldn't believe it was actually edible. The cake is finished with swags of fondant and topped with a fresh tulip bouquet (see photo).

Another cake Martin recently completed was layered to resemble a stack of wedding gifts. Each layer is covered with rolled fondant which has been quilted in a diamond pattern and finished with gold and ivory hand modeled gumpaste bows (see photo).

"I think both of these cakes display the flexibility of rolled fondant. I enjoy the challenge of making every cake a one of a kind piece, with rolled fondant it makes that goal more possible," Martin adds. With the popularity of rolled fondant decoration on the rise, Martin is excited about the future of cake decoration. "I think in the coming years, we will see a lot of very interesting cakes as brides demand innovation and we keep pace with those demands."

Personalize your wedding with silver rings

As the '90s wedding has become ultrapersonalized, individuality is key to selecting a wedding ring. Today, many couples are choosing bands that are more personal and ringed in style.

Rings no longer need to be traditional. Today's bands range from silver, gold, platinum and stones to combinations of metals for more versatility in the bride and groom's jewelry wardrobe. Hip sterling silver rings that adorn the most stylish fingers now also are taking a stroll down the aisle, reports the Silver Information Center.

Why are sterling silver wedding rings becoming popular? "Fashionable couples of all ages want a piece of jewelry that is current, reflective of the moment. They are more concerned with the aesthetic than tradition," says New York jewelry designer Meryl Waitz. "Silver isn't as expensive as other precious metals, thus it allows people the freedom to design more freely."

Bands can be wide or narrow, plain, shiny or satin-finished. Popular at the moment are artistic bands with a handcrafted, customized look. Designs, messages of affection and inspirational words also can be easily engraved and etched into silver rings.

"Custom-designing rings is a wonderfully personal idea," says Maria McBride-Mellinger, author of "The Perfect Wedding." "A brief inscription engraved inside, even outside, each band makes these rings truly special." The classic signature includes the bride and groom's initials and wedding date. McBride-Mellinger also recommends adding a poetic message that will be treasured always.

Remember, his-and-her wedding bands don't have to match. Couples really can customize to suit each other's personality and what the relationship means to each of them.

For those rekindling their wedding vows, a sterling ring with the virtues "truth" or "respect" etched for all to see takes on new meaning and serves as a reminder of the bond they share.

Like a marriage, couples want their wedding bands to be precious and last a lifetime. When buying silver rings, make sure they are sterling silver. Look for the ".925" mark.

Dream up a fantasy cake

A wedding cake will make some of your "sweetest" wedding memories, so couples can choose a cake made expressly for them.

Charming customs have surrounded the tradition of wedding cakes for centuries. Bridesmaids once believed they would dream of the man they would marry if a morsel of cake was tucked in a stocking under their pillow. And, today, for good luck, brides and grooms freeze the top layer for sharing on their first anniversary.

The top layer is especially fun to select as a couple. For example, you might choose a favorite flavor—like carrot or chocolate—or it might be filled with raspberry jam.

To ensure that the cake stays moist, package the top layer carefully to store in the freezer. Wrap it airtight, first in plastic wrap, then in heavy-duty aluminum foil and place in a rigid box to protect delicate decorations.

Elegant expressions for at-home receptions

At-home wedding receptions are more popular than ever — your home is the perfect place to express your style on your special day.

You can surround yourself with family heirlooms, favorite dishes, serving pieces, crystal, silver and linens. Even if the reception is catered, these treasured pieces can be added to those the caterer provides.

To ensure that your at-home reception is the best it can be, plan ahead, say the experts at Wilton.

• Think size. How many guests can your home comfortably accommodate?

• How about help? Will friends and family help prepare, serve and clean up, or do you need to hire additional help? Do you need a caterer?

• Decor? It doesn't have to be elaborate, but be sure to include something in every room. A sprig of flowers with a colorful ribbon can transform a room into part of the festivities. Adorn the punch ladle and champagne glass stems with ribbon streamers. Garnish punch cup rims with a perfect strawberry.

• What time? How hungry will guests be? Are light hors d'oeuvres enough, or will more substantial fare be needed?

• The menu? It must be easy to eat and serve. Most guests are likely to be standing instead of sitting. For example, vegetables and dip, fruit and cheese, pâtés and sliced breads, individual fruit tarts, and chocolate truffles are easy to serve and eat without utensils.

The star, of course, is the wedding cake. Make it one to be remembered, and one that suits your personal style. For a twist on tradition, Wilton has created Interlude, a magnificent cake cascading with hundreds of flowers.

A three-tiered cake is covered with rolled fondant (it's pre-made — all you do is roll it out and drape it over the layers). The easy-to-make flowers are cut from fondant, too, using small flower cutters in your favorite shape, like calyx, wild rose or daisies. The flower centers are just a dot of icing — choose a color or make them white, depending on your color scheme. Satin ribbons and bows finish the cake. Instead of the traditional cake topper, opt for the Kissing Love Birds ornament. Both it and the Candlelight Cake Stand have been painted silver to create a softened, antique look. (Be sure to separate any painted surfaces from the cake as the paint is not food-safe.)

Practical gifts are brides' new 'dream come true'

From department stores to hardware retailers, practical gift items are topping bridal-registry lists across the nation, as brides and grooms say "I do" to power tools, gardening supplies, answering machines and even tires as some of the best wedding gifts.

According to bridal experts, in the last two years, a new trend has clearly emerged among engaged couples from registering for traditional dream-come-true gifts like crystal and china to more useful items that will be household staples.

"Brides in the back-to-basics '90s have a more down-to-earth approach to their wedding, from the gowns they choose to the gifts they desire," says Renee Strauss, the Beverly Hills, Calif.-based celebrity designer whose gowns were featured in the movie "Father of the Bride."

Fine china and linens will always be in vogue but what most newlyweds really need are products they'll use regularly, like kitchen appliances, patio furniture and telephone products. Answering machines are one of the most popular and practical gifts for couples setting up a home.

Busy newlyweds can choose from six different ways to program their greetings to callers with Casio PhoneMate's TA-150 all-digital answering machine. For example, they can program the machine to play a business greeting during the day and a personal one at night. The unit's all-digital technology allows newlyweds to selectively save, erase and preview messages. Additionally, messages can be played back at variable speeds.

The machine lets couples store important messages in a separate location and preview messages by playing just the first few seconds of each new or saved message. With 24 minutes of recording time, newlyweds away on their honeymoon can record all of the messages from well wishers and even access their messages remotely from Touch-Tone® phones.

The TA-150 and other Casio PhoneMate products are available at consumer-electronics and department stores nationwide.
